KING GEORGE CHEERED BY CROWDS

Judge Charges Arrests Giving City 'Black Eye'

MITCHELL TO CUT TRAFFIC FINES HERE

Alarmed over what he terms the "black eye" Santa Ana is getting throughout the county and Southland for wholesale arrests for speeding, overtime, parking and failure to make boulevard stops, City Judge J. G. Mitchell is contemplating the reduction of the size of the fines.

Such was his statement today, and he will so inform the Traffic Safety commission at its meeting scheduled for Friday at the city hall. Judge Mitchell and Police Chief Howard have been asked to appear before the commission with recommendations.

Opposes New Officers

Judge Mitchell further will oppose the appointment of two new traffic officers. He declares that the present drive being conducted by the police department is not alleviating the situation and its only result is bringing more cash into the city coffers and creating hard feeling against the city.

"Last month," declared Judge Mitchell, "I turned over to the city more than $4000 in fines. This is not a tax, but money out of the pockets of our motorists. Last month I had almost 700 cases before me. If two more officers are put on it will mean many more arrests and many more will appear before me. It is physically impossible for me to hear more cases. I am subject to call night and day, even now. Motorists get me out of bed at night time. If two more officers are added to the traffic squad I will

Bees Take Over Main, Fourth Plug

Although Officers J. W. Foster discovered several flagrant violations of the motor vehicle code at Fourth and Main streets this morning he hesitated about performing his duty.

Officer Helpless

Officer Foster is fearless when it comes to enforcing the letter of the law. Many erring motorists have discovered as much, but when a nomadic swarm of bees tied up traffic at the busiest intersection, he was stumped—he couldn't do his duty.

The officer was helpless as the domesticated insects selected the spout of a fire hydrant for their queen to have her coronation ceremony.

Hundreds of the tiny insects swarmed over the spout of the plug. It would have been a hot time in the old home town had firemen been required to attach a hose with the buzzing buzzers buzzing around the plug.

Bees Control Corner

Store keepers and pedestrians steered clear of the corner the bees had taken over for fear one of the little insects might light and sit down unexpectedly.

Two years ago another nomadic swarm selected the northwest corner of Fourth and Broadway to light. Today it was the northwest corner of Santa Ana's busiest intersection.

Poundmaster H. D. Pickering was unable to cope with today's situation. Had it been a dog, cat or a horse that tied up the traffic and then parked on a fire hydrant, it would have been a different matter.

You simply have to be versed in the special technique required to handle bees. Cowpunching tactics will not work.

"A beekeeper will probably be along to round up the stray 'flock,'" Officer Foster said as he watched the swarm from a safe distance.

ROOSEVELT REBUFFED ON C. C. C. BILL

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—Overriding President's recommendations, the house today passed and sent to the senate a bill continuing the Civilian Conservation Corps for two years. The president had asked that the CCC be made permanent.

The bill—amended after an overtime house session that lasted until late last night—differed from the administration version offered by Chairman William P. Connery, D., Mass., of the house labor committee.

Pressure from house leaders failed to prevent an "economy conscious" and "rebellious" house, in which Republicans and Democrats linked hands, attaching numerous amendments to the bill.

As passed by the house, the bill contained a two year limitation on continuation of the corps.

It fixed pay of enrollees at $30 a month with a 10 per cent differential for corps leaders and amend the measure so that at least 10 hours a week must be given enrollees in vocation and educational training.

The bill reduced the salary of CCC Director Robert Fechner from $22,000 to $10,000 a year. The measure as passed called for a corps of 315,000 youths costing around $350,000,000 a year as advocated by Mr. Roosevelt.

ENGLAND'S KING AND QUEEN CENTER OF WORLD WIDE INTEREST

Fifty-three nations were represented when King George VI and Queen Elizabeth were crowned at Westminster Abbey today. Archbishops and bishops in their rich vestments led the way, followed by the queen, her train borne by six titled ladies-in-waiting, the nobles of ancient family, carrying the regalia of the royal family, and the king in his robes, surrounded by officers and yeomen of the guard. After the coronation ceremonies, the king and queen appeared on the balcony of Buckingham palace to acknowledge the cheers of the huge crowds.

BIG OVATION IS CLIMAX TO CORONATION

LONDON, May 12.—(UP)—George VI, crowned in Westminster Abbey as ruler over the British empire of 500,000,000 souls, covering one-fourth of the earth's habitable surface, appeared on the balcony of Buckingham Palace today with his queen, Elizabeth, and received an almost incredible demonstration of loyalty from his subjects.

The thousands massed around the palace raised a thunderous roar of cheering, here deep throat, there shrilly crescendo. A driving rain made no difference to those who had waited below, some of them for 24 hours.

The new king and queen were joined on the balcony by the queen mother, Queen Mary, the Princess Elizabeth, 11-year-old heir to the throne, and her little sister, Margaret Rose.

The king in a worldwide broadcast at 8 p. m. tonight (3 p. m. EDT) told the subjects of his empire that "it is with a very full heart that I speak to you tonight."

King George dedicated himself to a reign of service to the British empire and to the cause of world "peace and progress."

The crown was placed on his brow in Westminster Abbey four hours before, making him the 40th sovereign of England since William the Conqueror and in more modern times, ruler of the British empire.

Royalty, the nobility, dignitaries of all lands and chosen representatives of the English working classes took part, 7700 persons being present.

At the moment when the venerable Archbishop of Canterbury anointed the king's palms, breasts and head with hallowed oil, he became consecrated to God, king of Great Britain and Ireland, the British dominions beyond the seas and emperor of India.

LAUNCH DRIVE ON ACCIDENTS

Plans for the organization of a county-wide safety council which will embrace all civic organizations, churches and service clubs, were formulated last night, when the Associated Chambers of Commerce safety committee met at Green Cat cafe in Santa Ana.

The committee of 30, under the chairmanship of Dr. C. G. Huston, Costa Mesa, last night launched the county wide movement which is designed to reduce traffic accidents and eliminate as far as possible traffic hazards.

Council Planned

As a result of the discussion, plans were formulated to organize a county safety council which will be composed of delegates from every civic organization in the county. The principal problem of the council will be to conduct an intensive drive against reckless driving and traffic law violations.

Huston told members of the committee that attempts will be made to secure the support of the entire council to name every Boy Scout in the county as a volunteer traffic officer. Members of the various Parent-Teacher organizations, the service clubs, schools and churches will be drafted by the committee of 30 to wage war on speeding, reckless and drunk driving.

STATE LABOR BILLS CHANGED

SACRAMENTO, May 12.—(UP)—An effort to revive legislative interest in the labor relations board subject was made today as both houses, almost rid of major controversial issues, continued their slow progress into hundreds of bills now featured by heavy appropriation measures.

The assembly labor and capital committee took the Crittenden labor relations board bill, amended into the Yorty "Little Wagner Act," which was stopped in the senate, and sent it to the printer. The amended version will be considered next week.

Pension Measure Loses

Another major issue which was settled by virtue of an insufficient number of votes was the $50-a-month old age pension proposed by Assemblyman John B. Pelletier, Los Angeles.

Needing 54 votes in the lower house because of the heavy appropriation required by the bill, Pelletier received only 47. State officials estimated the measure, to raise pensions from $35 to $50 and lower the age requirement from 65 to 60, would cost the state, counties and federal government $175,000,000 biennially.

Defeat of the proposal left only one pension measure to be given final consideration before adjournment.

500 WPA MEN GET NEW JOBS

Approximately 500 Orange county residents, formerly employed on WPA projects, have returned to private employment during the past month, according to Dan Mulherron, manager of WPA in Orange county.

Many of these workers, according to Mulherron, were agricultural workers, experienced packing house workers and skilled artisans.

The return of the approximately 500 workers to private employment cut the Orange county WPA roll to 1500 persons, Mulherron said.

On April 3 there were 1820 people employed by WPA and later this quota was increased to 1920 with the entire quota employed. During the period from April 8 until yesterday 452 workers left private employment. This morning an additional 10 workers notified the WPA office that they had obtained employment in private industry.

TO RESTORE BLIMP

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—Army officials said today that the blimp TC-13, together with approximately 130 men of the balloon group now stationed at Sunnyvale, Calif., will be transferred to Fort Lewis, Wash.

MAN ENDS LIFE AT SEAL BEACH

Victim of a stock exchange crash which swept away his fortune, William A. Lewis, about 65, of 113 Twelfth street, Seal Beach, shot himself through the head and jumped into the ocean about 8 a. m. today, Seal Beach officials reported.

The shooting, declared to be a suicide attempt, occurred at end of Twelfth street. According to police, Lewis had been in ill health, had attempted to commit suicide twice before and told friends he would "try again." He died in an ambulance en route to a Long Beach hospital. Inquest or investigation will be made by Los Angeles county coroner's deputies at the Holton and Sons mortuary, in Long Beach.

Lewis, survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, of Seal Beach, and a brother, Grant Lewis, Laguna Beach, formerly lived in Decatur, Ill., where he was reported to have been wealthy. Lewis, almost blind, left an almost illegible note to members of his family group.

Film Strikers Ask Aid Of Longshoremen

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(UP)—Striking movie craftsmen sought the help of the militant maritime unions today in an effort to cripple the filming of sea pictures.

While a theater boycott got underway with picketing on Broadway in New York, the strikers asked the seagoing unions to boycott Hollywood camera companies on location at sea or waterfronts.

The Federated Motion Picture crafts addressed a telegram to the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, in session at Seattle, Wash., asking that maritime unions refuse to recognize the cards of the Screen Actors' guild, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and other non-striking studio unions.

Fruit Union Opens Drive Next Friday

Intensive organization of the Citrus Workers' Union of Orange county, under sponsorship of the American Federation of Labor, will be started at 8 p. m. Friday during a mass meeting to be held in Labor temple, 402 West Fourth street.

To Outline Purpose

Plans have been completed for a mass organization meeting to be held that night to be attended by all packing house and juice plant employees. A speaker representing the Orange County Central Labor council will be the principal speaker and will explain the purpose of the organization.

The charter for the new union already has been installed and the organization, affiliated with the A. F. of L., will first concentrate on the organization of workers in the packing houses and juice plants. It is considered probable that, later, the organization will be extended to take in pickers and citrus ranch workers.

Labor leaders in the county today indicated their belief that organization of the citrus workers under the A. F. of L. would definitely remove the possibility of a C. I. O. labor organization being formed in the county.

Charter Granted

Several weeks ago organizers for the Committee for Industrial organization visited the county and contacted leaders among the citrus workers. At that time the matter of organizing under the A. F. of L. was still pending while an attempt was being made to obtain a charter permitting membership of foreign born workers in the union.

Recently the charter, permitting membership of foreign born workers, was granted and leaders of a majority of the Mexican workers announced that they would urge their followers to organize under the A. F. of L. banner.

DUKE LISTENS TO CORONATION

MONTS, France, May 12.—(UP)—The Duke of Windsor lounged in a bathrobe near Mrs. Wallis Warfield today and listened to the coronation elevation of his brother to the throne which he gave up for love.

Outside it was raining violently. Inside, in the ancient kitchen of the castle, which has been converted into an American bar, it was cozy and the radio was placed beside the leaping flames of a big fireplace.

As a faithful subject, the duke sent a congratulatory telegram to his brother. The castle staff refused to reveal his wording.

The duke was mostly silent, except for an occasional remark to Mrs. Warfield, his querryer, Lt. Dudley Rorewood, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, the only others present.

A member of the entourage, in response to a telephone call, said: "I must insist that the duke is not sad today. I really believe he is profoundly happy that his brother is being crowned."

"Naturally, had the duke desired the crown, it would have been his but he made his choice and it is evident to those few who approach him that he has no regrets, but on the contrary appears happier than ever in his life."

The duke remained at the radio throughout the long ceremony. Servants said that Mrs. Warfield was excited but that the duke was not.

IRISH CROWDS IN WILD RIOTS

BY UNITED PRESS

While millions of British subjects proclaimed the crowning of George VI today, thousands demonstrated against him. Chief disturbances occurred in the Irish Free State, which officially ignored the coronation.

DUBLIN, May 12.—(UP)—Crowds rioted today as the Irish Republican army demonstrated against the coronation of George VI.

Pistol shots rang out and police swung clubs lustily in an attempt to keep order. Dozens were injured and required hospital treatment.

Thousands participated in the disorders. Windows were broken in 20 shops selling coronation mementos.

One shot fired by a demonstrator passed through the lapel of the coat of a police inspector without hurting him.

In O'Connell street the rioters were addressed by a speaker who bled from cuts on the nose and head. His hands was bandaged.

CHICAGO PACKER CALLED BY DEATH

CHICAGO, May 12.—(UP)—Louis F. Swift, 75, former president and chairman of Swift and company, packers, died in Chicago Memorial hospital today after a long illness.

Swift resigned as president of the company in 1931, after a 23-year term during which the corporation's capital grew to $150,000,000, with a surplus of more than $70,000,000. He served as board chairman for one year, retiring in January, 1932, and spending most of his time since then in Europe and Santa Barbara, Cal.

Swift was born at Sagamore, Mass., and came to Chicago when he was 14. One of his first jobs was assisting his father, Gustavus Franklin Swift, in dressing steers.

Late News Flashes

JANESVILLE, Wis., May 12.—(UP)—The 2,700 workers of the Janesville Chevrolet and Fisher body plants were idle today for the fourth time in three months when the management halted production after members of the United Automobile Workers' union evicted workers who were not members.

PARIS, May 12.—(UP)—French police tonight searched for members of the Oustachi secret band who were reported to be plotting to kill Prince Paul, the regent of Yugoslavia, on his return to Belgrade from the coronation.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., today attacked William E. Dodd, ambassador to Germany, as "a disgrace to his country." Borah issued a brief, scathing statement, after publication of a letter Dodd wrote to Sens. Carter Glass, D., Va., and Robert J. Bulkley, D., O., in which Dodd warned against activities tending toward dictatorship in this country.

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—(UP)—Leaders of the striking Federated Motion Picture Craft unions today announced two independent studios not affected by the strike, Walter Wanger and Republic Pictures, had opened negotiations to recognize the F. M. P. C.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—House administration leaders reported late today that a poll of the appropriations committee showed that the committee would report favorably to the house a $1,500,000,000 work relief bill, asked by the President.

INDICTMENTS DUE IN GRAFT INQUIRY

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(UP)—Deputy Attorney General William F. Cleary today predicted grand jury indictment of Peter McDonough, asserted "vice lord" of San Francisco, his associates and prominent municipal figures mentioned in Edwin M. Atherton's "tapped" telephonic recordings.

"We are pointing toward indictments and it is highly possible we can act in that direction," Cleary said. "I believe there is already enough on the record to justify perjury proceedings against McDonough and Capt. James B. Boland, police property clerk."

Cleary is now the leading prosecutor of San Francisco graft inquiries since District Attorney Matthew Brady turned the work over to Attorney General U. S. Webb's office.

It was revealed that Atherton, the city's chief police graft investigator, not only tapped wires of McDonough brothers, bail bond firm, but had recorded phone conversations of "suspected" persons in the federal building, state building and city hall.

MEXICAN GENERAL OUSTED

MEXICO CITY, May 12.—(UP)—President Lazaro Cardenas ordered Brig-Gen. Rodolfo Herrera Hernandez ousted from the Mexican army today and deprived of his rank of "due legal and moral reasons."

It was asserted that General Hernandez had been implicated in the murder of President Venustiano Carranza in 1920.

Fail To Settle S. F. Hotel Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(UP)—Efforts to settle the strike in San Francisco's 18 largest hotels reached an impasse today with negotiations deadlocked on the unions' demands for preference of employment and the 40 hour week for union desk clerks and office workers.

Strike leaders said the 3250 striking workers would continue picketing until the operators "change their attitude." Meanwhile, no arrangements were made for future peace meetings.

MERRILL PREPARES FOR RETURN FLIGHT

LONDON, May 12.—(UP)—Henry T. (Dick) Merrill and Jack Lambie, who flew from New York to take coronation pictures back to the United States, flew to Liverpool from Croydon today to prepare to start their return flight from Southport sands early tomorrow.

Another long flight with pictures will be made by Flying Officer David Llewellyn, who was at Lympne today preparing to start for Cape Town at 2 a. m. tomorrow. He will try to set a new London-Cape record.

Other fast flying, film carrying planes left Croydon this afternoon for Paris, Brussels, Berlin, Amsterdam, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Belfast.

PALO ALTO MAIL HEAD SENTENCED

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—(UP)—Leland J. Bruchi, superintendent of mails in the Palo Alto postoffice, today pleaded guilty to a federal charge of robbing mail bags entrusted to his care and was sentenced to five years in penitentiary and fined $500 by Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure.

It was the maximum sentence provided by federal law for such offenses. His request for probation on the plea that he would make full restitution of all money he had stolen from the mails was denied.

Bruchi's attorneys contended he had pilfered $250, while the government maintained he stole $500.

CROWDS CHEER BRITISH RULER

At 7:30 a. m. the archbishop placed the crown of St. Edward, glittering with priceless jewels, on the king's head and the assembly broke into a vast, shouted roar of the ancient cry, "God Save the King."

At 7:52 the queen's platinum, jeweled crown, smaller than the king's, with the great Kohinoor diamond gleaming in front, was placed on the head of the former Scottish commoner by the archbishop. Four peeresses held a rich canopy over her head. When she was crowned, all peeresses donned their coronets.

Crown On Side Of Head

There was a moment of awkwardness in the crowning of the king. The archbishop turned the crown in his hands, hesitating and puzzled to find the front. When he got it on, it was askew, setting rakishly on the left side of the king's head.

Outside, the royal salute of 103 guns boomed from the tower of London and St. James's park, and the hundreds of thousands who packed the streets echoed "God Save the King" in a swelling paean of joy.

They had stood in line for hours—some even for two days—to witness the magnificent state processions. They stretched in an unbroken mass on the six-mile route along which the king and queen, royalty, visiting notables and dignitaries rode in state back to Buckingham palace, accompanied by a great military display.

Bands blared and the roar and cheering was continuous and deafening.

It was 1 a. m. when the clear note of an army bugle sounded in Hyde park and opened Coronation day. Within ear shot of the bugle were crowds still jamming the west end of the city for the coronation-eve celebration.

Hundreds of thousands of people stayed up all night, massed in the principal streets. Already, with stiffened limbs, they were holding places along the routes of the principal processions to and from Westminster Abbey.

At 6:02 a. m. those massed outside the palace saw a blind raised. The crowded day of the royal family began then, Princess Elizabeth, 11, heir to the throne, and her little sister, Margaret Rose, 6, so excited they had had little sleep, were first up.

While the king was rising and the soldiers were eating their campfire breakfasts in Hyde Park near by, ermine robes and jeweled peeresses began arriving at the abbey. They carried their coronets in their hands, and most of them had plebeian sandwiches and thermos flasks hidden under the ermine.

David Lloyd George, war time prime minister, got a tumultuous cheer as he drove to the abbey, in full court dress with cocked plumed hat.

By 7:20 a. m. the abbey was one-third filled—nearly four hours before the start of the ceremony.

Ride In Automobiles

The first of the royal processions, that of the foreign royalties, was preceded by the Lord Mayor of the city of London, Sir George Thomas Broadbridge, in his gilt and glass coach of state and his robes of office. The royalties—by a change of program—rode in automobiles instead of coaches.

The king and queen still were donning their cumbersome robes when the "royal family" procession left the palace.

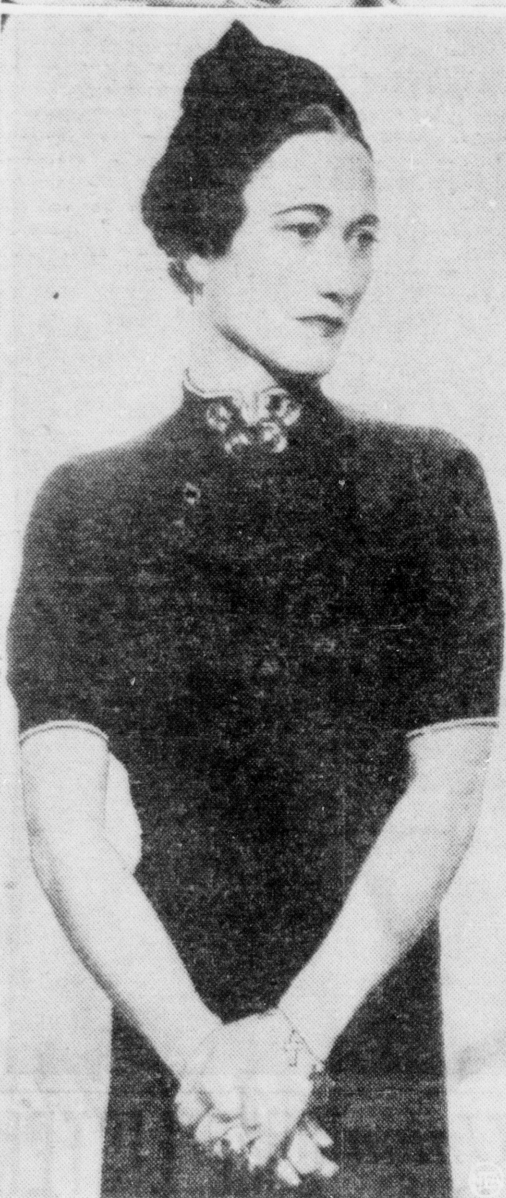

First was an escort of household cavalry, then the royal principals—the Princess Royal (Princess Mary, Countess of Harewood, the king's only sister) little Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose in their robes of purple and their little gold coronets, and Lord Lascelles, elder son of the princess royal.

Queen have a son, Princess Elizabeth queen have a son, Princess Elizabeth is to be queen in her own right and Empress of India, sovereign over nearly 50,000,000 people.

Next was the procession of widowed Queen Mary, and with her Queen Maud of Norway—just the one black coach, with its escort of household cavalry in glittering steel breastplates and plumed helmets. Queen Mary, saddened by the death of her husband, King George V, 16 months ago and the exile of her oldest son, now the Duke of Windsor, still was the regal figure of old. The blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter was across her breast. A diamond tiara sparkled in her high piled gray hair.

At 5:34 the king and queen left the palace. There was the big procession. First a small police radio car. Then mounted officers of all the fighting services, troops, mounted bands, yeomen of the guard in red and gold tunics of a bygone age, ruffled collars, russet breeches and old fashioned shoes, with spikes slung across their shoulders; then the king's bargemaster and his 12 watermen in their tunics and long peaked caps; next the escort of the king's own household cavalry and finally the state coach with its outriders, and in it the young king and queen, bowing almost shyly to the thunder of the cheers of their subjects.

They rode down the mall past the palace where the king's ancestor, Charles I, spent his last night on earth; down Whitehall past the place where his head was chopped off, and so to the abbey.

Queen Mary arrived at the abbey at 10:30, on time almost to the instant.

Gerard In Knee Pants

There was a bewildering assortment of uniforms among the British and foreign guests. They included James W. Gerard (knee pants), Gen. John J. Pershing (General Grant 600 uniform) and Admiral Hugh Hugh Rodman (regular admiral's attire with gold lace and cocked hat) and the American special envoys.

A peeress was seen chewing gum. A number of peers and peeresses leaned over secretly and drank surreptitiously at flasks of whisky and soda mixed at home for the occasion.

The archbishops went first in their vestments, then the queen, then the regalia of state, borne by noblemen, then the king.

The king and queen passed up the body of the church to the theater, past their thrones. The king and queen bowed in their adorations and knelt at the "faldstools" placed for them before their chairs of state beside the altar. They prayed, and then sat in their chairs for the long ceremony.

Veterans Mark Pinochle Night

Last night was Pinochle Night at Knights of Columbus hall when approximately 50 members of Calumet Camp, United Spanish War Veterans and the Camp Auxiliary, held their monthly social. Card play was directed by Charles E. Reagan, commander of Calumet Camp, and Mrs. Jean Tanti, president of the auxiliary.

Following the card party refreshments were served by the following committee members: Mrs. Katherine Reagan, Mrs. Dena Isbell, Mrs. Marie Lindquist and Mrs. Effie Hawley, assisted by Commander Reagan.

BOY IS INJURED

Paul Coffman, 13, of Buena Park, was treated at county hospital last evening, following a roller-skating accident in which he fell and fractured both bones in his left arm at the wrist.

Water spots on waxed floors can be removed by rubbing in circles with a flannel cloth dampened in turpentine.

FLOOD CONTROL PLANS BACKED

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today recommended to congress a broad approach to flood control and drainage legislation, designed to provide the nation with an integrated system of water conservation.

Mr. Roosevelt's views were contained in a letter accompanying submission to congress of the recommendations of the up-stream engineering conference held in Washington last year.

The problem noted that flood control and water conservation problems are not confined to large rivers alone.

"In fact," he said, "with respect to some problems, drainage basins must be treated as a whole, both headwaters and main channels of any river systems being brought into an integrated program of regulation."

The president's brief discussion, confined to general terms, was regarded as of significance in view of pending congressional action on a series of flood control and river regulation measures.

It has been forecast that action on any broad federal control plan will be delayed until the next session of congress for economy reasons and to allow further time for careful study of the whole subject from a national approach.

Lenski Headlines Program Of Local Breakfast Club

Vladimir Lenski, outstanding Orange county violinist and instructor, will be featured tomorrow morning on the weekly program of the Breakfast club. Lenski, who has presented many concerts in this county and Los Angeles within the past few years, will play a group of solos and will be accompanied, at the piano, by Dorothy Gutzman.

In addition to the concert by Lenski, phenomenal feats of strength will be demonstrated by James Evans, and the Breakfast Club quartet will sing. Edward W. Cochems, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

The club meets at 7:30 a. m. every Thursday.

KEN Murray SAYS:

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—Well, I'm glad we got that Kentucky Derby of our chest. Now, just as soon as they settle the British champion at Epsom Downs, the Hollywood actors can settle down and pay attention to the labor troubles in their midst. For while the nags are running, a film actor's makeup box may be in Hollywood, but his mind's on "Weather clear, track fast."

The fellow that said a race track is just an outdoor insane asylum was right. From Christmas to March they run Santa Anita practically in Hollywood's backyard. The rest of the year the film big shots work for Uncle Sam's income tax department. That enables them to wind up their fiscal merry-go-round flat broke.

But, at that, it's more fun betting on a boss than paying for the concrete WPA abutment for a lighthouse on some Arizona creek.

They say Al Jolson is Hollywood's biggest better. Al cleaned up millions singing "Mammy." It'll be a sad day for the bookies when he says "Uncle."

STATE LABOR BILLS CHANGED

ment. It was the Hornblower bill, to assure eligible pension applicants $55 a month and permit a $15 side income or credit for free rent or gifts. The Hornblower measure passed the assembly unanimously and now awaits senate committee action.

The assembly passed bills to appropriate $5,000,000 and $1,500,000, respectively to the San Francisco and Los Angeles expositions of 1939 and 1940, approved the Desmond milk marketing bill to give the director of agriculture authority to establish minimum wholesale and retail prices for milk after conducting hearings in areas desiring such legislation, and passed several appropriation bills which would add nearly $4,000,000 to state expenses during the next two years.

A five-day week for state employees was proposed in a bill approved by the assembly governmental efficiency and economy committee.

Official nationalist dispatches reported that 1000 Basque loyalists had been killed and 2500 wounded in the last 48 hours. Reports from other sources said nationalist casualties were equally high.

Basques force Bilbao retreat

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 12.—(UP)—Mount Biscargi, dominating Bilbao's outlet to the sea, was recaptured by Basque troops, in a strong counter-attack today, according to a loyalist war communiqué.

JUDGE TO CUT TRAFFIC FINES

have to have more help in my office.

"But that is not the worst phase of the situation. Santa Ana is getting a black eye all over Southern California. We are filling the city coffers at the expense of the motorists. People from other communities are refusing to come here to transact business. I personally know that the merchants are opposed to the present drive. We are getting no results. Conditions are just as bad now as they were before we started the drive. The addition of two more traffic officers will mean more money for the city treasury and more hatred for the city.

"Because of existing conditions I am seriously thinking of making a horizontal reduction in the size of traffic fines. Heavy fines for speeding and failure to make boulevard stops will not solve the problem. I don't know what the solution is. That's up to the traffic department. If this drive were nation-wide, state-wide or even county-wide it would be a different thing. But under the present set-up Santa Ana soon will be isolated from the rest of California and all motorists will route their travels around the city.

"There is a nutshell in my opinion. I will present the same views to the Traffic Safety commission when I go before them next Friday."

Judge Mitchell further stated that he would continue to deal out heavy fines for drunk driving and reckless driving.

The establishment of boulevard stop signs on four corners at dangerous intersections also was advocated by Judge Mitchell. He pointed out that to his knowledge not an accident had occurred at Seventeenth and Grand avenue since the establishment of four way stops. He further urged that the two stop signs removed on Seventeenth street at Broadway be restored.

IRISH CROWDS IN WILD RIOTS

Two youths wearing coronation emblems were badly beaten.

The demonstrators said their parade was meant to "repudiate the coronation of an English king as king of Ireland."

President Eamon de Valera appeared before the Dail and, speaking in Celtic, moved the second reading of the bill on the constitution.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., May 12.—(UP)—A half dozen students who made disparaging remarks regarding the coronation of King George were ducked in the Pond at Chamberlain square by fellow students today.

GLASGOW, May 12.—(UP)—Five Scotch members of parliament absented themselves from the coronation today and made anti-coronation speeches here.

LONDON, May 12.—(UP)—Police rescued a giant Edward VIII demonstrator from a dense crowd in Whitehall place today.

The man wore a service uniform with a Union Jack on his back. Over the Union Jack was superimposed a photograph of the Duke of Windsor.

He shouted: "Welsh nationalists do not forget. England rejoices while King Edward VIII remains in exile."

ROME, May 12.—(UP)—Not a single line about the coronation of King George VI or any other British news event appeared in Italian newspapers today. Local journals, however, devoted considerable space to the Duke of Windsor-Mrs. Wallis Warfield romance.

CAERNARVON, Wales, May 12.—(UP)—The militant Welsh nationalist party, with headquarters here, appealed to the Welsh people to boycott the coronation of King George VI today but the local celebration was elaborate and 8,000 people attended religious services in Deddfer pavilion.

LAUNCH DRIVE ON ACCIDENTS

It is the plan of Houston to set aside one Sunday in the near future when every pastor in the county will preach a sermon of safe driving. Houston further hopes to have traffic safety taught in every classroom in the county.

MRS. LAUNER IS NOMINATED FOR STATE OFFICE

Mrs. Albert Launer, Fullerton clubwoman, was nominated as vice-president at large, this morning as the annual state convention of the California Federation of Women's Clubs opened at Coronado. No other candidate was named for the post.

According to information received from the convention hall, the hottest election fight will center around the vice presidency of the state organization. Two candidates, Mrs. Grace Y. Hudson, South Pasadena, and Mrs. George A. Riggs, Oakland, were nominated for the post. Mrs. Duncan Robinson, Rio Vista, was nominated for the presidency, to succeed Mrs. W. D. James, Hanford.

Discuss Paroles
Other candidates nominated were: Mrs. Howard Sherwood, Monterey Park, treasurer; Mrs. Carl Schnabel, Yuba City, recording secretary and Mrs. Williams Garrison Olney, Wasco, auditor.

After first tabling a resolution calling for tightening of the parole systems of the states, the resolutions committee finally recommended adoption by the convention, along with another resolution which opposed any change in the United States supreme court.

Education Bill
Both resolutions were placed in the "emergency classification" along with another endorsing the Copeland-Bloom pre-grade education bill and a companion measure now pending in the California legislature.

It was understood the committee had a resolution before it endorsing birth control legislation but that formal action was being delayed, although it was said there was a possibility the measure might be favorably reported later.

VOTE ON COURT PROPOSAL SOON

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—The senate judiciary committee decided today to hold one more session—after President Roosevelt returns to the capital—on judiciary reorganization before voting on the administration bill for enlargement of the supreme court.

The committee heard Sen. William G. McAdoo, D. Calif., urge that the nation "cannot close its eyes" to growth of the nation or to increase in litigation. McAdoo urged adoption of his bill and constitutional amendment increasing the court to 15 members to handle increased business and freeing it at 15 to 25 years, after which congress could decide whether the court should be enlarged or reduced.

The committee decided to hear McAdoo complete his testimony in executive session on Monday. On Tuesday the committee will vote on whether to split the supreme court section of the bill from the part affecting lower courts, whether to adopt any amendments and whether to report the bill favorably or unfavorably.

An unfavorable report appeared certain unless, with the President's return the administration recognizes the strong senate opposition and offers to accept some modification.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

If God's love for you and your dependence upon Him are fitted to cheer you only when the sun shines and you hardly sense your need of them, they are of small account.

It is amid the storms that their supreme reality is demonstrated; when the castle of your dreams falls shattered about your feet, the chill wind blows and darkness reigns around you.

The hours through which you are now living teach you that "nothing can separate you from the love of God." His Presence sustains you when all else seems to fail; His strength upholds you while you are weakest; when you are otherwise you would fall, He carries you on with confidence and courage to certain triumph.

Rabbi Magnin Pleads To Save Nation's Ideals

NOTED SPEAKER WARNS AGAINST LOOSE THINKING

BY VIRGINIA FRITCHER

Europe is in the throes of several movements which if they flourish, will bring destruction to itself and threaten as well the high ideals and principles of the United States of America. So said Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of Los Angeles Wilshire Boulevard temple as he addressed Orange County Kindergarten Primary association members last night in Tustin K. P. hall.

"We must steady ourselves and forestall here what has happened in Europe. Ideas cannot be quarantined—and if the current European revival of Medieval creeds spreads to the United States, there is danger that the American people will arrive at the idea that nothing counts," he said.

Drifting Menace

Pointing out the irrevocable harm of "just drifting along," Rabbi Magnin urged that educational and religious groups have definite goals and take marked leadership strides. Hope for the future and some idea of progress should be in the philosophy of every human being, he said, changing the well known quotation to "Where there is hope there is life." It is this definite philosophy which he believes should be so much a part of the educational system that students will be influenced to catch ideas and to be stimulated into thinking.

To leaders in churches, schools and universities he entrusted the opportunity to steer youthful minds into right thinking; to teach children how to differentiate between the real and humbug; how to choose leaders; to know human values; to face life and its trials with faith; to appreciate life.

Mind Must Speed

It is this appreciation of life, he said, which will pull mankind out of the throes of lethargy and revived medieval influences into a world befitting the many wonderful inventions of the past few decades. Quoting James F. Robinson's book, "The Human Comedy," he said, "We are living in an airplane age and thinking with oxcart minds." The speaker elaborated with the statement that the average person of today is a primitive man surrounded by such wonders as radios, complete libraries and other advantages of which he fails to make proper use.

Stating that the world is filled with discontent, the Rabbi added that if every economic problem were solved, people would still be unhappy. He referred to knowledge as a means for developing certain attitudes toward life, God and existence, and eventually making for contentment—not the contentment of a lizard—but the contentment of a civilized being.

SIX FINED FOR SPEEDING HERE

Six speeders were fined by City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday while police were ticketing six others for the same offense.

Dorothy M. Hill, Los Angeles, was fined $25 for speeding; others included Harry Griffith, Pasadena, $6; George Kimmel, Los Angeles, $8; Everett Roundtree, Pomona, $5; Mrs. Robert B. Cole, Santa Ana, $5; and P. G. Barnett, Orange, $6.

Pleads Guilty

T. C. Cooley, Santa Monica cafe man, was fined $150 after pleading guilty to drunk driving charge. Everett Roundtree, Pomona; William Sikris, El Segundo, and J. I. Snelsinger, Santa Barbara, each paid $2 for boulevard stop jumping. Akra Migoda, Route 1, Huntington Beach, was fined $5 for driving without an operator's license.

Police also ticketed four boulevard stop jumpers; three reckless drivers; two motorists having no operator's license; two operating with noisy mufflers; eight illegal parkers; one having faulty tail light; one who failed to have license with him, and two who had no registration certificates.

SIX WILL TALK IN CUP CONTEST

Six members of the Smedley No. 1 Toastmasters club will participate in the quarterly cup speaking contest at the Daniger's cafe at 8:30 p. m. today.

These speakers, Walter Ferris, Harry S. House, G. F. McKelvey, Orville Northrup, James T. Workman and Sam Long, ranked highest during the quarter.

The winner's name will be engraved on a trophy emblematic of the best talks held during this quarterly period. If the speaker has had his name on the trophy before, he will be presented with a special personal award.

R. Carson Smith will be the toastmaster of the meeting, while T. H. Tibbles will act as general critic.

It will be women's night and a large attendance is expected for this meeting.

FORUM SPEAKERS TELL CHIEF POINTS IN PROPOSED FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT IN COUNTY

Proposed plans for a county-wide flood control and water conservation project embrace the best features of the Elliott plan plus additional drainage relief for the Fullerton and Santa Ana districts, R. B. Newcom told guests last night at the last meeting of the Forum for Political and Economic Education until October 5.

Newcom, assisted by P. H. Budd, would go to hundreds of property owners, among whom are no big land owners.

Land values can be established equitably through outside appraisers and condemnation of lands. Newcom said, in answer to a question: "How can the people be assured their money would go in equitable payment for lands needed?"

Comprehensive System

If we feel that flood control is our only need, we can save a million dollars but that would be synonymous with having a nice automobile and no gasoline with which to operate it," Newcom said. "Adding a million dollars to the program gives us water for irrigation purposes as well as flood control. The flood control project as outlined by the government would cost us approximately $2,500,000; by adding a million dollars, we will have a comprehensive system of water conservation."

Newcom declared that people generally "think Prado Dam" when the bond issue question comes up. "When, in fact, the Prado dam portion of the project is only a part of it—the project is county-wide."

Only One Link

Among the 15 "projects within a project," are Prado; Brea dam and channel; Carbon dam; Carbon conduit; Fullerton channel construction; Fullerton conduit and conservation; Santa Ana river channel; Santiago dam enlargement; Aliso dam; Trabuco dam, and additional flood control for several other localities.

"It is only practical and sensible that we should consider the proposition from dual standpoint, water conservation as well as flood control," Newcom said. "The government, itself, is only interested in the project from flood control standpoint but water conservation is just as important to us."

He outlined the project's history. Army engineers' function, cost, and details displayed on a map prepared by the flood control engineer. Proposal to safeguard the county's future water supply had its inception in 1925, he said, and now the government is actively interested in the program. "We should not miss this golden opportunity to obtain government aid," he added.

Expressing the value of water conservation in figures, Newcom pointed out that Santiago dam cost approximately $800,000 and in about four years, saved the county $974,000.

Land Values

An open storm drain ditch, extending from Edinger street, for 2-1/2 miles to a bay outlet, as proposed, will be of tremendous protection to Santa Ana, Newcom said, and similar protection is offered the Fullerton area, by the proposal.

George Sandy said he had heard persons object to the project because much of the $1,700,000 for obtaining lands and construction work at Prado "would go to private property owners." Budd explained that payment for lands owned by the county would be made by the county. The county would own the lands and the county would be responsible for the construction work.

FAMOUS OPERA TO BE STAGED HERE ON MAY 22

With the same lively, sparkling cast that delighted huge crowds at their presentation of The Mikado and The Gondoliers here last October, the Federal Music Project players and musicians will present "Hansel and Gretel"—Humperdinck's three-act Fairy Opera based on Grimm's fairy tale, Babes in the Woods, familiar to children of many generations—at the Santa Ana high school, Saturday evening, May 22.

The entire performance, a full length opera sung in English, with gorgeous costumes, settings and stage effects, will be staged under the supervision of William G. Stewart, and the full Symphony orchestra, of which Leon Eckles is the director, and will be conducted by Julius Leeb who occupied the conductor's place during both performances of The Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Many In Cast

Charles Cannon, whom local audiences will remember for his amusing portrayal of The Lord High Executioner when he stopped the show in The Mikado, will sing the role of Peter, the broom-maker, in the forthcoming production. Others in the brilliant and talented cast who were recalled time and time again during their previous appearances here, include Carmen Conger and Genevieve Roberts who will play the title roles, Hansel and Gretel. Elizabeth Clark is cast for the part of Gertrude, wife of the broom-maker, and that of the wicked crone will be sung by Dorothy Starbird, a former Santa Ana girl whose mother, Mrs. Theo Sammis, was equally well known as a soloist in local music circles.

Has Two Roles

The two roles will be assumed by Barbara Beck. The chorus of ginger bread children and the angels will be interpreted by the Orange County project singers under the direction of Mrs. Dudley Page Harper.

A special matinee performance, free to school children, will be given in full costume and stage effects, Saturday of the same date, at 2:15 o'clock at the high school. Tickets for this presentation will be distributed to the Santa Ana student body by the teachers. Parents accompanying children will be charged a nominal admission. ## PREPARATIONS SPEEDED FOR SEA SCOUTS' VOYAGE SOON TO LAND OF NORTHERN LIGHTS

Recently returned from a South Seas cruise, the 32 Sea Scouts comprising the crew of Capt. Fred E. Lewis' ship H. M. S. Stranger are preparing the vessel for early departure on an Alaskan and Arctic cruise. According to present plans, it is said, the ship will leave Newport Harbor the latter part of May.

It is expected that the vessel, formerly used in the Baltic sea and equipped for punching its way through ice, will remain in northern waters for a period of four or five months while the personnel makes observations of northern sea life and obtains specimens for scientific study. It is also expected that members of the crew will be given the opportunity to hunt polar bears and study the fur seals.

Push Far North

According to tentative plans, revealed to The Register today, the ship will make its first real stop in Alaska where a base of operations will be established. From Alaska the ship will push as far north as is possible without endangering the boys comprising the crew.

Practically the entire crew of Sea Scouts already has had practical training in handling the ship as they were members of the crew that made a cruise of several months to the Gallapagos and other South Sea islands where specimens of sea life were obtained.

One of the requirements of crew members is that they be members of the Sea Scouting organization and are rated among the older boys of this branch of scouting.

Young cuckoos hatch much sooner than most birds, which gives them an advantage over other fledglings in the nest. The young cuckoo, not content with a partial share of the food brought by the foster mother, actually throws from the nest the baby birds which rightfully belong there.

Sport Is Ruling Interest In Leisure Hours Of England's Monarch

King George VI looks the youthful, athletic monarch his career has prepared him to be. A proficient horseman, he is less interested in the "sports of kings" than in active participation in competitive sports.

He puts everything he has into whatever he undertakes, whether it is duty or pastime. Note his vicious swing at golf.

He enters wholeheartedly into the sports wherever he goes. Here he runs in a weight-carrying race for the entertainment of boys at a holiday camp in Southwold, which he endowed and visits regularly.

He is an enthusiastic fan, too, finding real entertainment on the sidelines, whether at local games in Scotland or crucial matches.

At tennis King George VI is better than average by far. Intent on the ball, he is seen playing at the net in the doubles matches of the lawn tennis championships of the Royal Air Force in London.

Photography is a hobby at which he is adept. His personal movie and candid camera form a cherished record of his travels.

SANTA ANA TO GET FLASH OF STEEL FRIDAY

A flash of steel—that will be Santa Ana's view of the Santa Fe Railway's Super Chief, when it passes through this city at 10 a. m. Friday on its return trip to Los Angeles from San Diego, preparatory to leaving for Chicago on Saturday.

Aboard the new train will be a delegation of Southern California business men.

The Super Chief is the Santa Fe's new giant of the rails, nine cars and Diesel-electric locomotive and replaces the present Super Chief on the Los Angeles-Chicago run. It will maintain a schedule of 39 hours and 45 minutes, making one round trip weekly between the two cities.

The new train will go into regular service on May 15. It will be on display tonight at the Los Angeles station between 6 and 9 o'clock and in San Diego Thursday between 8:30 and 9 p. m.

"WE'RE ON JURY" OPENS AT STATE

Victor Moore and Helen Broderick, as jurors in the comedy, "We're on the Jury," which opens today for a two-day run at the State, will provide uproarious hilarity. With that delectable screen fare also comes Glenda Farrell in Warner Brothers' "Smart Blonde," a mystery-comedy-drama; "Violets in the Spring," short comedy and "Easy Pickin'," a novelty short, complete the program.

It ordinarily is not humorous when a pretty woman is on trial for killing her husband but methods used by Miss Broderick in the role of an eccentric society matron, to convince 11 members of a jury that they are wrong, are both unique and refreshing.

Billy Gilbert, called "the funniest man on the stage," and Robert McWade, screen and stage comedian, play prominent roles in the play, "Torchy" Blane, is the new character played by Glenda.

Dr. Drennan was the first person to call Ireland the "Emerald Isle." He lived from 1754 to 1820 and used that name for the island in a poem entitled "Erin."

M'Laglen Warns Of Communism In Talk Before Fliers Here

Two-fisted, big-hearted Col. Victor McLaglen strode purposefully out of the flickering shadows of movieland last night to bring a strong-hearted message of Americanism and good fellowship to Santa Ana.

If he had just triumphed in an affair of the heart in a cinema scene, his beaming smile of greeting could have been no warmer.

Sounds Warning

If he had been cast as a hulking, fighting giant, snarling defiance at overwhelming odds of the enemy, he could have been no more impressive than last night when he said:

"Beware of Communism. Beware of Fascism. Beware of Nazism. Beware of all 'isms'—except Americanism."

His talk climaxed an elaborate dinner program of the No. 3, Santa Ana Wing, of the Victor McLaglen Air Corps, which opened at 8:30 p. m. in the Rosemont cafe with nearly 75 leaders and members of the wing, and Orange county aviation enthusiasts, in attendance. Commander Roy A. Cheverton, of the local wing, opened the meeting, and Major Arthur E. Willert of No. 1 Wing, Los Angeles, presided as master of ceremonies.

Seriousness Impressive

Coming like some of his unexpected counterattacks in a screen role, Col. McLaglen's smashing verbal blow at "mass strikes that demonstrate the manner in which Communism is eating at the very heart of the nation, and must be stamped out!" brought a sudden hush to the audience as the weight of his remarks darted like flood lights into the future to show a sinister menace.

"Every man has the right to work," he said. "Every man has the right to live. But when he will permit himself to become a party to mass strikes, he is inviting fascism, nazism or communism. I believe in unions; I am a union man myself, but just because a party of workers walk out, to convince 11 members of a jury that they are wrong, are both unique and refreshing."

Billy Gilbert, called "the funniest man on the stage," and Robert McWade, screen and stage comedian, play prominent roles in the play, "Torchy" Blane, is the new character played by Glenda.

CECILIAN GROUP STAGES SECOND CONCERT HERE

Cecilian Singers of Santa Ana represent a comparatively new organization made up of seasoned singers. Its director, Halstead McCormac, is a member of the younger generation who has won prominent place in musical circles of the community. So it was with the freshness of youth and the technique of the experienced that the Singers presented their second concert of the 1936-37 series last night in High school Little Theatre.

Two brilliant accompanists, Esther Vogt and her assistant, Adeline Cochems - Harrell completed the musical staff which presented a finished performance under McCormac's direction.

Guest Artist

Guest artist was Edwin C. Dunning, baritone of Los Angeles, accompanied by his wife, Winifred Andrews Dunning. His opening number was "Roadways" (Dennismore), followed by "The Horn"

This meeting is for business and professional men and women, chamber of commerce members and those affiliated with the various service clubs.

Supervisor Finley said the meetings are being called for the purpose of acquainting the residents of Santa Ana with all the facts of the coming bond election. The two engineers who will be at all meetings will answer any and all questions, following the talks.

WALKER'S WILL STAGE CONTEST

With the double-bill feature, opening tomorrow for three days at Walker's theater, "A Tale of Two Cities" and "We Have Our Moments," comes the second group of semi-finalists in the vaudeville contest to determine the talented performer who will be sent to New York free of charge, for an audition.

The vaudeville contest, to be held at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, and at the same hour, Friday, will present 14 acts to the public. Two winners Thursday and two Friday, will be eligible to enter the finals contest May 23.

Winners Listed

Last week, the winners were Betty Courtney, toe-tap dancer; Josh, eccentric dancer; Bobbie and Jackie, roller-skating youngsters, and Ruth Feen, impersonator. Two acts will be selected on each night, one by popular applause and one by the audience ballot.

"A Tale of Two Cities" was returned by popular request and no man, woman or child should fail to see this spectacular picture, starring Ronald Colman. Colman fans will find him at his best. The story is known to millions, intimately, as it relates of the joys and sorrows, adventures, of a little group of English and French who are caught in the maelstrom of the French Revolution, 1789. With the star are cast 112 others stars and featured players.

"We Have Our Moments" is the story of Mary Smith (Sally Eilers), school teacher who gets her first trip to Europe—accidentally, with a pair of crooks who make life anything but a bowl of cherries for the demure school marm. A color cartoon and news also are on the program.

MARITIME UNION WINS AGREEMENT

NEW YORK, May 12.—(UP)—The third agreement within a week was won today by the newly organized Maritime Union and its affiliates after a one day sit down strike on four ships of the Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies company docked here.

The company agreed to permit agents of the union to board its ships for organizing and to employ their members, at least until an election on all ship lines, to be held soon. The election will determine which unions are to represent seamen in collective bargaining.

GLENN MARTIN SOON WILL BE BACK IN CITY

Glenn Martin, designer and builder of the giant clipper ships, who was honored here Monday on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his flight from Balboa to Catalina, left yesterday for Los Angeles where he has established his headquarters during his visit in California.

Martin and his mother, Mrs. Minta Martin, are living at the Biltmore hotel and will remain there for several days before going to San Diego, where Martin will spend several days at the naval aviation field there. Later he will go to March Field where the army aviation corps is centering its war maneuvers.

Martin and his mother soon will return to Santa Ana as guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, who entertained them Monday night and Tuesday.

Former residents of Santa Ana, the Martins retain a real interest in the county. Mrs. Martin owns a 10-acre orange grove in the Tustin district.

Until a few days ago Martin owned a residence in Hollywood which he sold since his arrival on the west coast. Martin secured the property several years ago when he thought his business interests would permit his return to California to make his home.

"MELODY FOR TWO" BEGINS TONIGHT

The program changes at the Broadway theater tonight, with a new double feature program presenting "Melody for Two" and "Mountain Justice."

"Melody for Two" is a thrilling musical drama starring the golden-voiced idol of the air waves, James Melton, and lovely Patricia Ellis. In Pan Alley, night clubs and radio stations figure prominently in the settings. Filled with new hit tunes, the film is an hilarious one, the theme of which is a musical feud between Miss Ellis and Melton.

"Mountain Justice" is a study of love and life, battling against ignorance, fanaticism and backwardness in a hill-country community. It co-stars Josephine Hutchinson and George Brent. The dramatic story concerns the efforts of a girl to bring enlightenment to the community. Her father, who viciously opposes her efforts, is murdered, and a court trial climaxes the drama.

Townsend Topics By W. F. Rockwell

(Editor's Note: The comment and opinions of W. F. Rockwell, as appearing in this column are not necessarily those of The Register.)

Please tell me, if you OR ANY ONE ELSE, can (including the President, cabinet, senate, house of representatives, supreme court, ambassadors, and all other officers of the nation, states, counties, cities, towns, villages, hamlets, J. P. Morran, DuPonts, Raskob, et al), what is the sense in running the world as it is today?

It looks far more "cockeyed" than the Townsend plan. What real benefit is there to anyone by all this crazy, wild, mad scramble for wealth and power which keeps the strivers continually out of harmony with nature and is so transitory and uncertain that even when temporarily and seemingly attained, has to be watched and worried over to prevent loss, thus making FEAR the real ruler and master instead of sensible, natural thought and action? The Townsend plan will not change human nature nor the machinery of government.

It simply will use our present tools in a sensible, sane, constructive way instead of the present destructive, foolish method which is continually causing crime, suicide, misery, want, hunger, privation and waste of time, energy and all the benefits of creative being. Green and selfish lust for gold and power distorts the nature, cripples the finest features of our being, preventing real happiness by the "will o' the wisp" mirage that is mistaken for real well being. Spending money for churches and preachers and then working all week against their Sunday teachings is—well, what is it but a seeming waste without the results these organizations hold out to mankind for their welfare.

Nearly two thousand years of such procedure finds the world little, of any, improved morally and spiritually, except, perhaps, in spots. Nothing like the Townsend plan ever has been tried since the time of Adam and Eve, and now, for the first time in all history it is ready for adoption with the certainty that the innumerable dire effects of the past will be ameliorated and mitigated if not obliterated. Is all this "too good to be true"? Well, there would be no harm to anyone to try it out, and that is just exactly what the Townsends intend to do, with the cooperation of the United States government.

The May 11 Los Angeles Times has a picture of Judge Bert Rogers, a picture of Judge Bert Rogers, and "Buddy" Rogers who is to marry Mary Pickford soon. Judge Rogers has become converted to the Townsend plan.

Club 3 meets Thursday in Townsend hall. A good speaker is expected.

Club 1 will meet Thursday in Roosevelt school.

Movie Actor Has Chicken "On Him"

It was a newspaperman's delight at the banquet last night when Col. Victor McLaglen spoke before nearly 75 officers and members of Santa Ana Wing No. 3 of the Victor McLaglen Air Corps at the Rosemont Cafe.

"The actor," said Commander R. A. Cheverton, head of the local outfit, at one phase of the meeting, "has insisted that these chicken dinners are 'on him,' so just forget about your checks, and I think we ought to give him a big hand."

He got a hand, and how.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved by taking Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of appetite and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

OLDS MANAGER SAYS AUTO IS PRIZE PACKAGE

The automobile today stands unchallenged as the prize package of all mechanical history, asserts C. L. McCuen, general manager of Oldsmobile.

"Ever since the first commercially successful automobile was built by Oldsmobile 40 years ago, the spread between price paid and value received has steadily widened in favor of the purchaser," McCuen asserted. "This has been achieved largely through the restless engineering genius of the men who design our automobiles. No year goes by that they do not perfect some development which permits the manufacturers to offer a definite increase in value. Increasing values successively have brought wider demand, broader markets, greater volume, lower manufacturing costs and finally lower prices."

McCuen cited the sharp rise in value enjoyed by Oldsmobile buyers just within the last six years. Since 1932, he pointed out, the prices of both the six and eight have decreased by approximately $165, representing a drop of 7 1/2 cents per pound of car to a new low of between 23 1/2 and 25 cents per pound.

"During that period the weight and wheelbase of both cars have been substantially increased," he said. "The horsepower of the six has been advanced from 74 to 95, and of the eight from 87 to 110. Brilliant improvements have been achieved in acceleration and hill-climbing ability. The latter is best illustrated by the fact that the two cars now require approximately seven seconds less time to negotiate the famous 11 per cent hill climb test road at the General Motors proving ground than they did in 1932. The constantly decreasing cost per horsepower during these years provides the most striking evidence of increased value to car buyers. In 1932, the cost per horsepower for the eight was $12.12, compared with $8.09 for 1937. Similarly, the six cost per horsepower has been reduced from $12.90 in 1932 to $5.31 for 1937."

"But operating costs also must be considered in appraising the value of any mechanical device. And in the reduction of that factor our engineers have scored their greatest triumph. You would naturally expect that increases in engine size and power, together with longer wheelbase, bigger bodies and increased weight, would cut down on fuel economy. But due to the many refinements made by engineers in carburetion, combustion, and ignition design, the very opposite has been accomplished. Despite their much greater horsepower, increased weight and vastly improved performance, fuel economy for both Oldsmobile six and eight for 1937 has improved very materially. For example, the fuel economy of the six has steadily increased, year after year, until this year's six provides five miles more transportation per gallon than the Oldsmobile six of 1932. The eight, too, has kept pace in economy advancement, and today yields only slightly less mileage than the six."

BASEBALL STARS SIGN UP--FOR OLDSMOBILES

It has been estimated that 525,000 children attend London's schools daily.

MARCH MOTOR FINANCING IN NEW INCREASE

Washington (D.C.) May 12.—The dollar volume of retail financing of new passenger automobiles in March was 86.7 per cent higher than that of February and 7.3 per cent above figures for March, 1936, according to statistics released this week by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic March, four years ago was 449 per cent, the report revealed.

Last month's report showed that dollar volume in February had dropped 3 per cent from the volume in January, owing, it is believed, to strikes in the automotive industry.

The aggregate volume for the first three months this year was 8 per cent above the first three months of 1936 and almost 58 per cent higher than the 1935 period. Aggregate volume for January and February of this year was 4 per cent above the corresponding period of 1936 and 46 per cent higher than the first two months of 1935.

These estimates are based upon figures reported to the Census Bureau by a sample group of large finance companies. The dollar volume of these organizations represents more than three-fourths of the automobile finance business of the country.

GEORGE 35TH KING SINCE WILLIAM I

LONDON, May 12 (UP)—George VI was crowned 40th sovereign of England today, but he is only the thirty-fifth king since William I. The discrepancy is due to the fact that five women have been sovereigns of England since then, namely Jane, who reigned only 14 days, Mary, Elizabeth, Anne and Victoria.

One king, Edward V, actually never reigned. He was one of the two princes murdered in the tower of London, but he is nevertheless included in the records.

William III ruled jointly with his wife Mary, but only William counts in the record.

WILLYS APRIL PRODUCTION AT NEW HIGH PEAK

TOLEDO, O., May 12.—Showing a fourth consecutive monthly gain, and establishing a new monthly record with an output of 8,819 new Willys cars in April, total output of the 1937 Willys models reached 38,421 units as of May 1. David R. Wilson, president of Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., announced today.

April production was 4.5 per cent greater than that of the preceding month which had been the record month since production of the new models began late last fall.

The factory sales division reports all cars being shipped at the close of each day's manufacture, with advance orders still exceeding production schedules.

Distribution is through 2300 dealers who are participating in the Spring Parade, a nation-wide sales campaign calling for 1,000,000 Willys demonstrations in seven weeks.

Dealers have been supplied with 2,000 Willys deluxe sedans, with bright yellow bodies and green fenders, which are being used in the huge demonstration program. This campaign was launched April 19 and will continue until June 7.

Although the campaign has been in progress only two weeks, large increases in retail sales have been reported by dealers throughout the United States.

It is estimated that the special Willys demonstrations will travel an aggregate of 10,000,000 miles during the seven week demonstration program. This program is being backed by an extensive newspaper and magazine advertising, together with poster, direct mail and radio campaigns.

TANK FARMING TRIED IN SOUTH

HATTIESBURG, Miss., (UP)—F. L. Glenn is sure of having riches in store this year. He is raising it in the first soil-less agricultural station in the Hattiesburg section.

Some time ago Glenn set up some tanks on his farmland started his first crop. He planted Irish potatoes, tomatoes and spinach. He says the plants appear healthy. The tank process for growing plants is simple. Into a tank 2 feet wide, 5 feet long and 6 inches deep is poured 25 gallons of water. It is heated to a temperature of 70 degrees, Fahrenheit. A quart container of chemicals is submerged in the water. The tank is covered with fine chicken wire netting. Spread across the wire is a 2-inch layer of excelsior. Seeds, tubers or plants are then embedded in the excelsior. Then the tank is placed in the sun. After that there is nothing to do but wait for the crop.

The new method requires no weed pulling, no plowing and no worry over crop failure. Agricultural experts at the University of California already have shown that crop yields can be produced by tank methods. In a tank, the area of which was but one-hundredth of an acre, they raised three-fourths of a ton of potatoes.

That was equivalent to a yield of 77 tons per acre. Tomato vines grew 35 feet long and produced huge fruit. Tobacco stalks soared to a height of 22 feet. All of the plants were healthy specimens because of carefully planned chemical diets.

New Units Speed Law Enforcement

Law enforcement work demands cars that are speedy, yet economical and efficient. The Ford V-8 is meeting these requirements for the Los Angeles Police Department. Recently 31 new V-8 sedans were added, bringing the total Ford V-8's in Los Angeles city police service well in excess of 200 units. Included in this delivery were Ford V-8 85 horsepower units for traffic law enforcement and a number of Ford V-8 60 horsepower units for detail and investigation work. Chief of Police James E. Davis, right, and Captain Fred A. Therhorn are pictured here as they inspect the new 60 horsepower engine size in a 1937 Ford V-8. Maximum economy and V-8 performance of durability, speed and pickup were among the principal factors in the police department's choice of the thrifty "60" for special detail and investigation work.

Soviet Takes Labor Training From Schools

MOSCOW, (UP)—Because instruction in schools was unable to keep pace with the advanced technique of Soviet industry, A. Bubnov, commissar of education, ordered that labor instruction as an independent subject be abolished in elementary and middle schools.

Labor instruction was aimed at inculcating labor habits in students. Bubnov explained the order with the statement that labor instruction had been carried on in primitive workshops equipped with primitive technique. This, he explained, developed in students an erroneous idea about modern industrial technique and distorted "the directive given by the (Communist) party on general and politechnical education."

Workshops were closed and equipment given to school laboratories or children's homes, while funds assigned for the workshops were diverted to equipment for chemical, biological and physical laboratories.

Teachers of labor discipline were instructed to be requalified as teachers in physics and mathematics, or if their educational qualifications were not sufficient for those subjects, to be discharged and paid the regulation pay adjustment.

"Essentials" comprise less than 12 per cent of United States imports.

NEW INSURANCE TRAILER RATES ARE FORECAST

A new schedule of recommended insurance rates for house trailers is expected to be announced within the next thirty days by the National Automobile Insurance Underwriters in Chicago. Up to the present time, due to lack of actual experience in trailer operations, the business of fixing rates for these new vehicles has been guesswork.

Play Safe Side
In Michigan and other States, insurance companies have played the safe side and have been charging a rate higher than that charged for an automobile of equal value. In most cases these rates have been figured on the same basis as commercial trailers, which spend their working time in congested traffic.

Costs Reduced
House trailers use the highways comparatively little and at night are parked safely. The average trailer owner avoids traffic congestion whenever possible and the majority of his operation is in rural areas.

Thus, it is pointed out, the house trailer's exposure to potential accidents is much less than that of a trailer used in commercial service and a lower rate should obtain. Still another contradiction is the fact that the rate of the car towing the trailer is as much as 63 per cent under the trailer rate in the city and 173 per cent lower in villages.

SOVIET MILITARY LEADER DEMOTED

MOSCOW, May 12.—(UP)—Marshal Michael Tukhachevsky, regarded many as the Soviet union's most brilliant soldier, was removed today from his post as vice commissar of defense.

A. I. Yegorov, former chief of the general staff, replaced him.

The change was regarded as the most important in the Red army since Leon Trotsky was removed as war lord.

R. M. Shaposhnikov was named chief of staff and J. E. Jakir, general of the first rank, was sent to the important Leningrad military command from Kiev.

Tukhachevsky was ordered to the relatively unimportant Volga military area, as commandant.

REFUND DUE ON CARAVAN FEES

With the California Caravan Act held invalid by a decision of the United States Supreme Court, persons who paid fees under the defunct law are entitled to refunds and the Legislature has made an appropriation for that purpose, the Automobile Club of Southern California points out.

The Caravan Act required anyone who drove or towed a vehicle into California from another State for the purpose of sale to pay a fee of $15 per vehicle. Strict enforcement resulted in many individuals being required to pay the fee although not actually engaged in caravanning. Club members seeking refunds may apply for assistance at any office to the organization.

PASSENGER CAR SALES RISING

Passenger car sales for the first quarter of 1937 on the Pacific Coast showed substantial gain over the same period of last year.

Increases for the quarter in each of the three Pacific Coast States were: California, 12 per cent; Washington, 9 per cent; and Oregon, 2 per cent. Passenger car sales totaled 62,551 in California this year as compared with 55,665 last year; in Washington 12,310 this year and 11,302 last year, while Oregon reported 8664 this and 8517 last year.

The grand total for the three States shows 83,525 passenger cars sold in the first quarter this year as compared with 75,484 for the same period last year, or a gain of 10.6 per cent.

TRUCKS AND BUSES PAY HEAVY TAXES

Motor trucks and busses operated for hire paid $12,421,000 in special taxes in 1935 alone, in addition to paying millions of dollars in State and Federal gasoline taxes and State license fees, according to United States Bureau of Public Roads reports. The 1935 cost of these special taxes represents an increase of nearly one-third over the $9,402,000 cost reported by the bureau for 1934.

MINES TO BOOM IN BLACK HILLS

DEADWOOD, S. D. (UP)—Advancing prices of non-precious minerals has stimulated mining activities in the Black Hills.

The newly formed Dakota Tin and Gold company has announced purchase of electric power equipment. Installation already has begun.

A crew of men is employed in developing the tin property near Tinton, 18 miles from here. Assays of the mine ore run at the School of Mines show a high percentage of tin.

Another tin property, near Tinton, formerly the Black Hills Tin Mining company, has been leased by the Fansteel corporation of Chicago and is in operation. The company plans to mine amblygonite, tantalite and tantalum.

Sixty-three carloads of bentonite were shipped out of Belle Fourche during March to various points in the United States. Eight cars went to foreign countries.

Large quantities of bentonite are used by the government in grouting newly constructed lake dams. After core drilling at the base of the dam, the cores are filled with bentonite. When it becomes wet, it expands greatly and effectively seals the holes, preventing seepage. Bentonite has a variety of other uses from face powder to oil well drilling. Iron prospecting is being carried on extensively throughout the area.

There are known to be deposits of hematite ore in the foothills, mineralogists say. M. J. Scanlon, Hermosa, has displayed some samples which contained 70 per cent iron. He has located a deposit near Hermosa which contains a bed of hematite iron ore 30 feet thick.

Safety Features For Highway 60-70

In line with a progressive campaign being undertaken to provide a double line division on the most heavily traveled arterials, state officials recently added this safety feature on the portion of Highway 60-70 near the Kellogg Ranch which usually gets an active traffic play. Above, a member of a scout party sent out from the Gilmore Oil Company, is pictured inspecting the raised portion in the safety zone that has just been constructed by workmen.

PENSIONER, 96, SAYS LINCOLN LIKED STORIES

PUEBLO, Colo., (UP)—Guy Wringe, 96-year-old Pueblo pensioner, gets his chief enjoyment from recalling the days when he split rails with Abraham Lincoln and knew Mark Twain and John D. Rockefeller.

Lincoln, according to Wringe was a handy man with the axe, but given to stopping his labors to tell stories.

"He would be working away," Wringe relates, "and all of a sudden he would say, 'that reminds me,' and then he would begin telling some story he had thought of. He was a great one to tell tales."

He split rails with Lincoln in an Illinois cedar swamp. Wringe was acquainted with John D. Rockefeller sr., when the latter was getting his start in the oil business in Illinois.

Wringe credits Rockefeller with having said, when asked on a certain occasion what should be done, "Well, we must either hang together or hang separately."

Mark Twain, the novelist, was a reporter on a Virginia City newspaper when Wringe knew him.

Wringe tells that Twain replied to the father of a prominent family whose daughter he had been courting when asked about his family background:

"Ask the editor, I've lied for him for three years, and now he can lie for me."

The 96-year-old pensioner missed going to the Civil War by six days. The regiment to which he had been assigned departed six days earlier than had been announced. He came to Colorado in 1870 and has lived here 26 years since that time. For many years he was a prospector and miner in Leadville, Victor and Cripple Creek.

Action of Bees Believed To Be Sign Language

LONDON, (UP)—Bees have a language, expressed in dances and by scent, which enables them to "say" that there is food to be had in plenty, and on which kind of flower it is to be found, Prof. K. von Frisch, of Munich, who has spent 27 years deciphering this language, told a gathering of scientists at University College.

Frisch brought with him a collection of films to prove his points. Here is his story of what happens when a bee brings home a message of plentiful food.

First, the wanderer disgorges its own supply, feeding the younger bees, which is the first duty to the hive. Then it begins a "round dance," moving slowly round in circles. The dance conveys the one word, "sugar," and there must have been found enough of it to make it worth while for other bees to seek out its source. Otherwise, or if the extraction of the sugar is difficult, the bee will refuse to dance. It will merely go back and collect more. It will not invite friends to hard labor.

Bees who have found pollen have what Prof. Frisch calls the "tail-wagging" dance. Of this, too, he has a cinema record.

Years ago, cooking time was "throwing time." Old recipes read like this: "Throw into a bowl two cups of flour, throw in a dash of salt, throw in a teaspoon of soda, and throw in after a cup of milk."

Widows in the Bena Bena tribes of New Guinea carry the skulls of their departed husbands about with them for the rest of their lives.

BUICK MOTOR GAINS SHOWN

FLINT, Mich., May 12.—Buick gains in registrations in the state of California during 1936, according to national car registration statistics.

With 14,134 new cars registered in the state during the year, Buick showed a gain of 7766 cars or 121.9 per cent over the 6368 new cars licensed in 1935. During December, 2622 new Buick cars were registered in California as against 1103 in the corresponding month of 1935.

Buick also showed exceptional gains in registrations on a nationwide basis with 160,687 new cars licensed in the 48 states and District of Columbia as against 87,635 in 1935. This was an increase of 73,052 units or 83.3 per cent.

Bullet Noses of Highway and Skyway Save Fuel

BULLET NOSES OF HIGHWAY AND SKYWAY—Automobile and aeronautical engineers concur on streamline design for motor cars and airplanes, as evidenced by the accompanying photograph of the new Willys and the latest type Douglas airliner, one of several now in regular service on the American Airlines. This particular design, engineers have learned through extensive study, affords the least wind resistance, increasing speed and decreasing fuel consumption. Both airliner and Willys are of all-metal construction.

PRESS HEAD WARNS OF U. S. PROPAGANDA

DES MOINES, Ia., May 12. (UP)—The world needs more newspaper men who are "insulated against every kind of propaganda pressure," Hugh Ballie, president of the United Press, said in a message read last night to the fifth all Iowa State Founders' day celebration of Sigma Delta Chi.

"The message was sent by Ballie in his capacity as national honorary president of the journalistic fraternity, and was read at the meeting by J. H. Furry, vice president of the U. P.

"There has never been a time when the intelligence and integrity of the average newspaper man was of more importance to the people of their country than it is today," the message said. It is upon the faithfulness of these newspapermen to the highest standards of accuracy and impartiality that these people must depend for their knowledge of the great events which are swirling around us, and which have such a tremendous and far-reaching effect upon the lives and happiness of all.

"We need more newspapermen who are insulated against every kind of propaganda pressure, for there never was more propaganda loose in this world than there is today. The reporter is exposed to all sorts of influences, from the grossest bulldozing to the most subtle persuasion. Around every issue nowadays there springs up groups, which have come to be called 'pressure groups' one of whose prime objectives invariably is to gain a favorable press."

The expenses of the President of the United States and the upkeep of the White House total about $450,000 annually; King George's civil list normally appropriates $2,338,900.

BELIEVE COAST LEAGUE RECORD BROKEN IN S. F.

(BY UNITED PRESS)

The in-and-out Mission Reds, cellar occupants in the Pacific Coast league, sent baseball flirts tumbling record books today as a result of their 21-0 victory over the Portland Beavers, 1936 champions in San Francisco last night.

The Reds made a bid for some kind of record in the first inning when, after two men had been retired, they scored 11 runs. There have been 11 runs scored in one inning before but none of the baseball experts sitting around the San Francisco cracker barrels could recall a previous instance of such a tremendous rally started after two men were out.

Frank Doljack, broad-shouldered outfielder, led a 26-hit assault on Portland pitching with two home runs and two doubles.

By their lopsided victory the Missions somewhat assuaged the sting of the 21-1 defeat they themselves suffered in Los Angeles Sunday.

The other San Francisco team, the Seals, continued their fine play with a 2-1 victory over Oakland. Ed Stutz pitched shutout ball until the ninth in winning his sixth game of the season. Ken Douglas was the loser.

Pay Thomas, Los Angeles ace, also scored his sixth of the year with a 9-2 win over Seattle. Collier and Holt hit homers in the 16-hit Anger attack on three Indian hurlers.

San Diego made a desperate challenge against Sacramento to the league leaders won out, 3-7. The Padres twice took the lead only to have the Solons tie it and finally go ahead.

ART NIEBLAS LEADS COLLEGE SWATTERS

Santa Ana Junior college may not have had the best baseball team in the Eastern conference this season, but it did have some heavy hitters.

In releasing batting averages for season and conference games today, Coach Blanchard Beatty noted that four Dons batted better than .300 in the five league games, and two exceeded the .400 mark.

Outfielder Art Nieblas accumulated a seasonal total of .314 and in the five conference games blasted the horseshoe at a .450 clip.

Gordon West, center fielder, also got in the select .400 circle with an average of .408.

Twelve players were named by Coach Beatty to get letters. They were Art Nieblas, Bob King, Gordon West, Hal Jessee, Erwin Youel, Bob Wilde, Duane Teel, Verne Rutledge, Arnold Pickle, Fred Erdhaus, Winifred Mackay and Bill Nowotny. Hal Mossman received a manager's letter.

Batting averages:

San Diego Mat Fan Succumbs Watching Bout

SAN DIEGO, May 12.—John H. Webster, 60, was one of San Diego's most rabid wrestling fans and last night, as usual he was on hand for the weekly card. As usual, he became excited during the course of the events.

He toppled from his seat and was carried outside the arena where police surgeons pronounced him dead. The excitement had caused a heart attack.

PITTSBURGH.—Dr. Jock Sutherland threatened to resign rather than go along with the athletic director of the University of Pittsburgh, so it was W. Don Harrison who had to step down.

There isn't likely to be further difficulty between Dr. Sutherland and the front office, however, for Jimmy Hagan has replaced Harrison.

While Hagan merits the position, his appointment further stresses the tremendous influence wielded within the Panther athletic council by the institution's famous football coach. Hagan happens to be Dr. Sutherland's own product.

Hagan matriculated from Windham in 1924. He played quarterback and right half in 1925, and was the regular right half in 1926 and '27, when he blocked for Gibby Welch, the All-American half. One of the finest punters in Pitt history, he was a good passer and an excellent ball carrier. He scored the Panthers' touchdown in their 7-6 loss to Stanford in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, January 1, 1928, when his kicking kept the Cardinals away from the Pitt goal line after time.

Jimmy weighed only 149 that afternoon, and isn't more than a half dozen pounds heavier now.

SWINGS TOWARD EAST

Hagan became associated with a Chicago engineering company upon being graduated in 1928, but the following year returned to Pittsburgh as assistant director of athletics. Jimmy, a firm friend of Harrison, was named graduate manager in 1933.

Pitt's new athletic chief is married and the father of a young son. He neither drinks nor smokes. He was an honor student and a member of various honorary societies on the campus. He reads until the wee small hours of the morning, is a first-rate bridge player, and likes to walk. He formerly was a baseball addict, but golf has monopolized what little spare time he has had since he whittled his score down. He dislikes the limelight.

Pitt's football policies will undergo no radical changes under Hagan, unless it is a slight swing toward the east, which the Panthers have shown a tendency to neglect in recent years.

Pitt's eastern opponents now include Carnegie Tech, Duquesne, Penn State, West Virginia, and Fordham. From the west are Notre Dame, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Duke represents the south. Nothing more has been said about Notre Dame severing gridiron relations with Pittsburgh after CLEVELAND.—There is nothing serious about the soreness in Bob Feller's long right arm, according to himself and Cleveland Indians' management, but many of the experts around and about are shaking their heads and saying that he'll have this lingering ache after each game he pitches.

Naturally, Feller's long illness, after he strained his arm in his first appearance of the 1937 season, worried Cleveland's fans, who are rather excitable citizens. They began fearing the worst after a week.

But Business Manager C. C. Slapnicka, Manager Steve O'Neill, Trainer "Lefty" Weisman, and Master Feller himself have all taken turns in trying to assure the public that everything's going to be all right.

IT'LL ACHE AGAIN

Some experts, however, insist that this is just one of the many sore arms that Feller is going to have this season. They don't like his delivery. "He uses an exceptional wrist and arm snap on the ball and it strains the muscles," says Umpire George Moriarty, for one.

"There's nothing wrong with his delivery," Manager O'Neill reports. "He's just got a sore arm—every pitcher gets a sore arm now and then."

One gentleman close to the Cleveland affairs blames the sore arm on the pitching mound in League Park here. It wasn't Feller's fault, at all.

"You see," says the gentleman, "the mound had just been built up after being leveled during the football season and the ground wasn't firm. The dirt would give away when Feller put his foot down and he was thrown off stride. It caused him to be a little wild and the extra effort of trying to overcome this handicap put too much of a strain on his arm."

DELIVERY DECEPTIVE

Walter Johnson, who never had a sore arm in a score of years of truckwork work, thinks that Feller's delivery is deceptive. "He lets the ball go in such a manner and in such a position," says the old Big Train, "that his chest is right in the background and the batter has a hard time picking out the ball against such a setting."

Al Schacht, the comedian coach who pitched five double-headers in the International league in 1915 before he picked up a permanent sore arm, sees nothing to be alarmed about over Feller's condition.

"I had more sore arms in my day than an octopus," says Mr. Schacht. "I had to stop playing cards because I always got a sore arm dealing. So I ought to know what I'm talking about when I talk about sore arms."

"Feller's arm is sore in the forearm close to the elbow. That's nothing to worry about."

"The only times you've got to worry is when you get sore up here"—and Mr. Schacht punched his finger into the point of his shoulder—"or right in here"—and he jabbed his finger into the depression around his crazy bone, which is, even in his case, the elbow.

Schacht agrees with the majority of the experts. He thinks that Feller's pitching motion is rather jerky. "It's not smooth and easy like Johnson's or Grove's," he says.

WON'T WIN THIS YEAR

Rogers Hornsby, who has seen his St. Louis Browns succumb to Master Feller's swing music, doesn't find there's so much wrong with his rhythm, but he doesn't think the young fellow is going to be a winning pitcher this year. "He'll have one bad inning every day, at least one—just like he did against us in that game when he hurt his arm. He's still too wild and a little flustered with men on bases. One base hit is liable to beat him on a half dozen occasions during a game. He won't win any 20 games this year by a long shot. But he will in time to come."

Clark Griffith, who handled the great Johnson in his early days and led the American league pitchers himself once, although he never had anything more than his fingerprints on the ball, doesn't think that the Cleveland management should worry over whether Feller has a change of pace. "They should just concentrate on him improving his curve, his control, and the way he stands in the box."

C. C. Slapnicka smiles appreciatively at all these bits of advice and laughs at the fearsome predictions of the experts, and assures the Cleveland fans:

"Don't worry about Feller. He's all right. We're just not taking any chances. So long as there is the trace of soreness in the arm we won't pitch him."

All players who served parts of five seasons in the American association and who are now retired from baseball are eligible for season passes to all of the league's games.

JIMMIE FIDLER IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, May 12.—Driving to work today, I had to twist my wheels sharply to keep from crashing into a woman motorist who failed to signal a turn. That set me to thinking about women drivers, and about how few actresses motor-their-own. Mulling over this, I wondered whether they were just too lazy, or too preoccupied. I believe the correct answer is simply that they do not want to.

Greta Garbo has no knowledge of handling a car. When she was required to start one in a movie scene, the machine was towed. Marlene Dietrich has no driver's license, nor has Mae West. I cannot recall seeing, nor can I immediately find anyone who has seen Norma Shearer, Mary Brian, Miriam Hopkins, Loretta Young, or Edna Mae Oliver in the driver's seat.

Most foreign stars frankly admit fear of American traffic. This is especially true of those who come from countries where traffic lanes are reversed; that is, where cars keep to the left of highways.

Too, there is the matter of accidents. A star in a slight collision is marked as easy prey for a big damage suit. That is why wealthy actresses prefer experts at the wheel. Another angle is that the average New York actress has never owned a car; she knows more about taxi meters than she does about clutch pedals, and more about subways than about changing tires.

But whatever the cause, the more I think of this morning's woman motorist who made me flinch with a telephone pole because she failed to signal, the more I admire actresses who leave motoring to chauffeurs.

Instead of collecting autographs, some of the stars are having themselves a hilarious time collecting "doodles." Doodles, in case you do not know (I didn't) are the meandering figures, diagrams, circles, and whatnots the average person draws while he is talking on a telephone.

Each particular doodle, so I am informed, means something to doodle "experts." (Silly as it sounds, there are people who set themselves up as experts and presumably read character from these knock-knacks of pencilmanship). Chatting with Anita Louise the other day, I was absently drawing my favorite figures (rows and rows of lines), when she suddenly grabbed the paper and crammed it in her handbag. It seems Anita is a collector of doodles. And today she telephoned to tell me that experts say my particular scribbling indicates a well-balanced mind. Can you blame me for laughing when they call "doodle character readers' experts?"

This really happened, although I will admit it reads like a wild man's dream. That is why I have written this explanatory forenote about its being true.

The scene called for a hundred hungry horsemen to dismount and crowd around a barbecued steer. With their bare hands they were to tear off the meat and eat ravenously. Ordinarily not much of a trick, but the first take of the scene was spoiled because a foreground extra regarding his portion with disfavor. At which the director stopped the cameras and lit into the poor guy. At last the extra confessed, "I am a vegetarian."

LOCAL SAVANT SCOFFS AT IDEA WOMEN CAN BE CLASSIFIED AS TO COLOR OF HAIR OR "TYPE"

By MARY KNOCH

"It's absolute 'bunk'!"

This was the statement made by Professor Edward M. Nealley, psychology and philosophy instructor of Santa Ana Jaysee in answer to the question, "Does the color of a woman's hair have anything to do with her character?"

British scientists recently declared that not only did the color of the hair indicate the character of a woman but it also has to do with the mental and physical make-up.

Utmost Confusion
"Brunettes seldom suffer from infantile paralysis and diseases of the nervous system, while blondes are martyrs to the common cold, influenza, and diseases of the lungs; and brunettes usually have the best teeth while blondes and redheads are often victims of rheumatism and rheumatic fever," stated the London scientists.

They went on to say that "As a result of heredity, all the types blend in the utmost confusion. A brunette remains a brunette no matter how much she bleaches and a blonde is still a blonde in spite of darkening dyes. Their blood, their nerves and their minds cannot be changed by the hair-dresser.

Tells of "Contacts"

"Some people have brains which are finer and the connections are better than others and this alone has to do with a person's mental efficiency," stated Nealley. "If a person is dull it is because his mental connections are dull and not because of the color of his or her hair." The body is only the house in which the nervous system lives and it is the nervous system that makes us what we are, not the body," continued Nealley.

That blondes give way to excesses of rage and grief, that brunettes are sadder and more soulful and that redheaded women are fiery and easily angered was reported in the article from London in which the British scientists gave their ideas in the matter. That blondes and redheads are susceptible to skin affections and that a real brunette virtually is immune was also revealed by the Brits.

"Physiognomy was at its highest about 25 years ago," declared Nealley, "but since that time, it has dropped considerably. The people of the United States still believe in such bunkology as this and they pay two hundred million dollars a year to these bunkologists. All this question concerns is physiognomy."

M'KINNEY HIRED BY SUPERVISORS TO PLAN FIGHT

The county supervisors late yesterday retained B. Z. McKinney, Santa Ana attorney, to defend Purchasing Agent Eugene Fenelon against the mandamus action brought by County Auditor W. T. Lambert, in the typewriter purchasing controversy.

McKinney, who also is special counsel for the county in connection with flood bond proceedings, and in defense of a suit brought by the Eden Oil company for a rejected claim, was employed in the controversy on a roll call vote of 4 to 1.

Smith Opposes Move

Chairman Willard Smith cast a vote against the employment of special counsel. His opposition, he explained, was not to the selection of McKinney, but to the selection of anyone. Smith had voted against the board's purchasing policy which denied the right of elected county officials to select their own departmental equipment and supplies, and thereby precipitated the Lambert mandamus action.

Cancel Bills
Hearing of the mandamus petition is scheduled next Friday at 2 p. m. before Superior Judge James L. Allen.
Uncollectable bills for service at the county hospital, aggregating $1358, were cancelled by the supervisors yesterday, in order to clear the hospital books. The bills had been accumulating since 1932.

The Mixing Bowl

By ANN MEREDITH

This recipe for butterscotch Pecan Bars is the contribution of a reader who says it is her life-saver when she needs a dessert that must be produced in a hurry. After reading and visualizing, the recipe I can quite understand how good this "emergency" dessert would be when served with fragrant hot coffee.

Butterscotch Pecan Bars
Melt 1/2 cup butter and mix with 1 cup brown sugar.
Stir in 1 beaten egg and cool mixture.

Sift together:
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt
Shelled pecans to make 1/2 cup.

Stir sifted flour into sugar mixture, add nuts, "careless like," and smooth the batter into an 8 by 8 inch pan. Bake 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven, cut in squares or strips, and cool in pan.

Why not paint the lily a little more brilliantly by serving the pecan bars hot, topped with almond flavored whipped cream. Might as well die for a sheep as a lamb, for both are fattening.

Lady-with-hips and unwanted elevations, take heart! Your excess weight can be removed via the diet route, our diet to be exact. Send a stamped, addressed envelope today and ask for the Safe and Sane diet.

C. R. STAUFFER, Plumbing and Heating, 212 N. Broadway. Enjoy the convenience of a modern automatic water heater with a tank of non-rust Everdur Metal. An automatic heater brings comfort, convenience, cleanliness, and health. But, to give these benefits year in and year out, the heater should be equipped with a non-rusting storage tank. Tanks of Everdur Metal deliver the type of service which brings true economy . . . no break-downs due to rust attack. Why? It's a HOYT WATER HEATER from C. R. STAUFFER'S.

FRIEND-CHRISTY, 223 North Broadway. Be careful the way the rooms in your home are lighted. When you use a Chase "Even-Glow" fixture you'll find it gives more light and a diffused light which is essential to good seeing. You can be tired from simply sitting still and reading under improper light. Ask FRIEND-CHRISTY for Chase "Even-Glow."

ARCADRE REMNANT SHOP, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. Got some spare time? Who hasn't? Here is something for you to fill up those moments. Rag rugs . . . crocheted or braided. At the ARCADRE REMNANT SHOP, buy print strips and curtain salvage, reasonably. When it's done (you can make a large or small one), you'll have a valuable hand-made finished product! Rag rugs for your home.

EATON'S BAKERY, Grand Central Market. With gusto, we wanna tell you about EATON'S strawberry pies. When we bring them home to the family, they say, "One of Eaton's strawberry pies again . . . boy-o-boy-o-boy!" Why? Because they're made out of fresh strawberries with real fresh flavor for only 25c. You'll wonder how they do it. You'll be tempted to tell them to raise their price . . . but of course you won't do it!

RANKIN'S, Fourth Street at Sycamore. Down to the sear, with a handana tied around your hair, colorful clogs strapped to your feet, and a great flopping hat to set over your curls when the sun rides high! RANKIN'S is full of such important trivialities, all of which go to make your beach wardrobe a thing of splendor and incidentally, man-luring.

RANKIN'S, Fourth Street at Sycamore. We've all breathed a sigh of relief and let the last vestiges of masculinity go out of the door! Women are women again—sighing, blushing, stepping lightly, and easing up on slang. RANKIN'S have the romantic fashions that express this luring mood. You'll be so pleased with yourself—and every man will be more adoring toward you.

CHILDREN'S BOOTERY, 407 N. Broadway. "As the twig is bent, the tree will grow." So it is with the feet of little children. Gertrude Bradford's CHILDREN'S BOOTERY offers you barefoot sandals . . . the original Palm Springs toeless sandal. It's time for cool shoes with the warm weather coming on. You'll simply love the toeless sandal that she will show you!

SUNSET CLEANERS AND DYERS, 904 W. Fourth. Information for you! Did you know that rugs need shampooing to keep the nap soft? If you keep out the grit, you'll prolong the life of your rug considerably. That's easy to understand tho! Isn't it because that's true of nearly any kind of material. The grit and dirt is what wears out the rug. The SUNSET CLEANERS use the Hild system for cleaning carpets.

HOMARTS, 211 North Broadway. If you want to go "nuts" (sad but true), make a trip to HOMARTS. Ask for SPODES "ROSE BRIAR." The interest and merit to be observed in this quaint style are due to its being a wreath design, running in free and easy style and not overdone nor stiff. It adapts itself to the "Chelsea Wicker" shape . . . a design of charm and interest.

CHIC LINGERIE SHOPPE, 219 N. Broadway. For the graduate and the June bride, what would be nicer than a very personal gift? She wouldn't be feminine if she ever had enough, would she? Printed nighties, Silk p. j's, and slippers in crepes, satins, and taffetas. Mrs. Gladys Goodrich and Henrietta Bohling wrap gifts free of charge. That's something!

ORANGE COUNTY 'RAGGERS' HOLD REUNION AT ANAHEIM CHURCH

ANAHEIM, May 12.—More than 100 Orange County Y.M.C.A. campers met at the Anaheim Presbyterian church this week in the third Raggies reunion of the year. The event, the final reunion before the opening of Camp Osceola this summer, was open to boys who are interested in attending the camp as well as to the camp Raggies, boys who have attended in the past.

Raggies emblems and club emblems were used to decorate the church rooms, where women of the church served dinner to the boys. Members of the Girl Reserves waited tables. J. B. Wilbur of Orange led in the singing of camp songs and Herbert Thomas of Santa Ana accompanied.

The inspirational message was brought by the Rev. Morris Singer, a former Camp Osceola leader who drew on his own camp experiences in his talk.

"Camp life represents a highly refined and magnified Christian experience," he said. "It may be likened to the mountain top, where the boys find a clear vision, carrying it down with them to their daily life."

"A boy may start to camp with an entirely selfish motive to enjoy himself. While he does this, he finds enjoyment at camp in serving others. Youth throughout the world is following signs and symbols, but the true sign for the American boy in a Christian environment is the sign of the cross."

Rev. Singer is a White Raggie. Bob Larson was toastmaster and the Rev. Thomas H. Walker gave the invocation and the Rev. R. Kells Swenerton, the benediction. Fred Engle entertained the boys with a "bedtime story" and Herbert Gulick and George Hyde presented morning and evening editions of the "Camp Crumbler."

Conrad oneward, as Anaheim Y. M. C. A. secretary, headed the committee of Anaheim boys acting as hosts to the boys of Orange and Santa Ana.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

THE constellation, Orion, is rich in story lore. It was mentioned many times by the Greek poets, Homer and Hesiod, as well as in the Book of Job. Orion was a mighty hunter, and as he is pictured in the sky, the giant, red star Betelgeuse forms his right shoulder, and the bright Rigel forms his left foot.

REPORT BUILDING ACTIVITY AT SEAL BEACH IS ON UP GRADE

Placentia To Represent State At Meet

PLACENTIA, May 12.—Placentia High school will represent the state of California in the livestock judging division of the National Future Farmers of America contests at Kansas City in October. The judging team, which placed first in the state contests held last week at San Luis Obispo, is composed of Donald Worden, Stanley Van de Putte and Edward Mier.

The livestock division, which is the biggest contest includes judging of beef, sheep, horses and hogs. Howard Hawkins, instructor, will accompany the boys, taking with him one other alternate. This is the second time a Southern California team has won the state championship, the other winning team being a group of boys from Chaffey High school who won first place in 1929.

SECURITY URGED FOR FARM LABOR

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 12.—(UP)—Social security must be provided for California's migratory agricultural workers, Eric H. Thomson, regional sociologist for the settlement administration, told the California conference of social workers today.

Large numbers of agricultural workers in California have been allowed to develop a dispossessed, homeless proletariat, lacking all the most elementary sanitary facilities indispensable to civilized living, Thomson said.

He pointed out that while the Social Security act "protects millions of our people against the hazards of unemployment and old age," it does not apply to agricultural workers.

START TRIAL OF DOUGLAS STRIKERS

LOS ANGELES, May 12.—(UP)—Selection of a jury started today in Superior Judge Edward T. Bishop's court for trial of 24 assorted ring leaders of the recent sit-down strike at Douglas Aircraft plant in Santa Monica.

Charges against more than 300 others arrested at the time of the strike were dismissed yesterday.

OIL CONCERNS ACCUSED AS LAW VIOLATORS

Charging that the Shell, Standard and other major oil companies have violated anti-trust laws and statutes prohibiting unfair practices and restraint of trade, the Mirakol Chemical company, of Anaheim, joined with S. A. Shibley, Sarah S. Shibley and Lulu D. Barbart today in court action to forestall foreclosure of the Mirakol property.

The plaintiffs petitioned the court under the mortgage moratorium act to postpone an assertedly threatened foreclosure sale. The Anaheim First National Bank and its receiver, J. V. Hogan, were named principal defendants.

Interference with its business has prevented the Mirakol company from paying the $3200 indebtedness against its property involved in the foreclosure, it stated, citing that the oil companies were interfering with the Shell company had attached the Mirakol premises, it was stated.

HOOVER ATTACKS PAROLE SYSTEMS

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation charged today that the administration of prison parole systems "in all too many of our states approaches a national scandal."

Hoover accused "interested persons" of concealing the "true severity of the situation."

It was learned from justice department officials that a three-way study of release procedures, ordered by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, is nearing completion.

"It is necessary to distill the blather of the sentimentalists and the cruelty of the non-humanitarian into a clarified viewpoint" of paroles," Hoover said.

"This problem is perhaps more complicated than ever because of the efforts of interested persons to conceal the true severity of the situation and, by their twisting of apparent facts, seek to muddle the public mind concerning it."

MAN CONFESSES MURDERING NURSE

FRESNO, Calif., May 12.—(UP)—Roy L. Righthouse, 27, today confessed, after four hours grilling by sheriff's deputies and Deputy District Attorney James M. Thousen, that he strangled and attacked a woman identified as Mrs. Roy Estep, 40, Fresno nurse, Under-sheriff C. A. Tarr announced.

Tarr said that in his confession the youth said his wife left him a week ago and that on Monday night after he had had several drinks, he telephoned the Nurses' Central registry saying his wife was ill and needed a nurse.

He was given the name and address of Mrs. Estep. Righthouse confessed he struck the nurse over the head with a pair of pliers.

Righthouse also told the sheriff's office he accidentally ran over his year-and-a-half old son recently, killing him. Tarr said that an investigation of this phase of the youth's story, however, revealed that the child's mother had taken him with her to Colorado Springs, where she is living with her father.

Burglars apparently frightened away, after entering the Edward Backs home, Placentia, last evening, Backs told sheriff's officers. He believed the return of the houseboy to the Backs place, frightened away the burglars before they obtained loot. Deputies R. R. Lutes and James Musick investigated.

PLANES "ATTACK" SOUTHLAND AREA

MARCH FIELD, Riverside, Cal., May 12.—(UP)—Supposed "enemy" war planes today invaded the Salt Lake City area in a night flight from Murdock Dry lake where army air corps units, have been maneuvering.

A squadron of nine bombing planes flew over Salt Lake City at an altitude of 12,000 feet and "bombed" the railroad station, objective of the night raid.

In other maneuvers today, the coastline around Los Angeles harbor was mapped out on the bed of Murdock Dry lake and invaders attempted to bomb an ammunition ship supposedly entering the harbor.

The invaders succeeded in "sinking" the ship and bombed the entire waterfront.

In a third attack, "enemy" bombers dropped explosives on aircraft factories in the Los Angeles area as laid out on the lake bed.

PRESIDENT RESTS AT RANCH OF SON

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 12.—(UP)—President Roosevelt rested today at the ranch home of his son, Elliott, after telling 3000 Texas A. & M. college cadets that the government is training them for America's defense—"and not for aggression."

Foreign countries should follow this nation's example, the president told an armed ring of youthful reserve soldiers standing at smart attention.

"Our preparation," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is honestly made for defense and not for aggression. We devoutly hope that other nations are going to get our point of view so they may spend less of their national income in preparation for war, and more of it for the arts of peace."

The president will board his special train at 6 p. m. today to resume the trip back to Washington.

D. C. Shirley, of Santa Ana, sentenced for offenses involving two young girls in a home maintained by Mrs. Shirley, was sentenced to 25 years on each count, the total being 50 years, since the sentences run consecutively.

Others Listed
Alvin F. Koenig, 24, of Orange, former U. S. C. athlete and boy's work leader, was sentenced to 20 years for offenses involving young boys.

Arthur Crowell, 32, Orange musician, sentenced for similar offenses, must serve ten years.

Frank Barrows, 63, La Habra music teacher, involved in similar offenses, was ordered to serve 12½ years.

Manual Proa, sentenced to two counts charging burglary, was required to serve terms of 15 and 5 years, running concurrently.

HOLD PARLEY ON STEEL CONTRACTS

PITTSBURGH, May 12.—(UP)—Peace in the steel industry hinged today on the outcome of a series of conferences between John L. Lewis' Steel Workers' Organizing committee and officials of independent producers who have not signed union agreements.

A conference was scheduled today between Philip Murray, SWOC chairman, and H. E. Lewis, chairman of the board of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, which employs 25,000 workers in Pittsburgh and Aliquippa, Pa.

Union employees of Jones and Laughlin have empowered Murray to call a strike late tonight unless the company agrees to a collective bargaining contract similar to those already signed by United States Steel corporation and more than 100 smaller concerns.

PILOTS BLAMED IN U. S. BUREAU REPORT

WASHINGTON, May 12.—(UP)—The bureau of air commerce accident board reported today that pilot error was probable cause of two airline crashes near Newhall, Calif., which resulted in death to 17 persons, including Martin Johnson, noted big game hunter.

The first accident, involving a United Airlines transport plane, occurred December 27 killing nine passengers and three members of the crew. The second, which happened on January 12, involved a Western Air Express plane. Five persons were killed in this crash.

The opinion of the accident board in the United Air Lines wreck was that the probable cause was "error on the part of the pilot for attempting to fly through Newhall pass at an altitude lower than the surrounding mountains without first determining by radio the existing weather."

In the other crash, the accident board found that the probable cause was "error on the part of the pilot for descending to a dangerously low altitude without positive knowledge of his position."

STORIES IN STAMPS

BACK and forth, between France and England, the seven islands comprising Guadeloupe in the West Indies were shuttled from 1759 to 1866. Discovered by Columbus in 1493, the colony was taken over by the French in 1635, long remaining a dependency of Martinique. The British captured it in 1759, it was restored to France four years later, and again the British took it in 1793.

That same year Victor Hugues, French corsair, offering freedom to those slaves who would join him, rounded up an army of blacks and routed the English. But Napoleon Bonaparte, in 1802, re-established slavery on the island, and many of the freed men killed themselves rather than submit.

In 1810, England again took over the island, only to give it up six years later. Today, the colony is a rich source of sugar, coffee, cocoa, and rum.

A view of one of the two largest islands is shown on the stamp below, issued in 1905.

THEY HAD THOUGHT OF EVERYTHING

NEW YORK CITY, N.Y.—The plantations of Malaya had been rifled of their rubber; the finest of silk, the lightest of aluminum alloys, the most powerful and economical of engines, the most delicate and precise of instruments, every provision had been made for the comfort and safety of those aboard—and the "Hindenburg" sailed the skies in silver beauty, a portent of the daring and ingenuity of the human mind.

They had thought of everything. Hydrogen, lightest of known gases, lifted her hulk above the solid earth, helium, which cannot burn, was not available. The only known supply is in the United States and is a government monopoly for reasons of national defense. Hydrogen is light and when mixed with ordinary air becomes a violent explosive. So they took no dangerous chances and had their crew work in rubber soled shoes and the men who moved among the great bladders of hydrogen wore asbestos-lined garments lest even the tiny sparks of static electricity which a man can generate as he shuffles along in cold air might ignite the gas as it seeped through tiny holes in the fabric in its powerful struggle to rise. They had thought of everything.

They apparently had won. Nation after nation had experimented with these great air-ships. Nation after nation had met with disaster. With us the "Shenandoah," the "Akron" and the "Roma" had written the death line across heavier-than-air aviation. The British had seen their giant R-101 burst in flaming wreckage above the dark dank lands of northern France. The French had seen their "Dixmude" vanish above the Mediterranean in a disaster which is still a mystery. Italy, too, had lost, but the Germans were masters of the art. They had thought of everything.

Voyage after voyage, the "Hindenburg" shuttled across the Atlantic, now to South America, again to Lakehurst, N. J., carrying freight, passengers and mail. Her motors droning beneath the cold stars, her silver sides flashing through the clouds and mists, her commander at the controls—radio, navigation, weather reports, everything co-ordinated, all her men working like a single man under the discipline of one magic-

KIDNAP CHARGE MADE IN LOCAL COURT BATTLE

Charges that Robert Owen Ivan Jones, Los Angeles man, accused with T. R. Gillenwaters, former Oregon district attorney, of conspiracy to defraud the La Vida Mineral Spring company out of $1000, was kidnapped and made the victim of false imprisonment by those seeking evidence against Gillenwaters, were hurled in Santa Ana justice court yesterday.

Today, five attorneys, three on defense and two for the prosecution, bickered furiously over attempts to impeach the testimony of W. N. Miller, La Vida executive.

Something happened. Nobody knows what it was. Perhaps a rain-drop charged with a particle of electricity from a wailing thunder storm. Perhaps the mantle of static which the friction of her silver skin had gathered about her as a cloak in her passage through the air, released by the ground-contact of the landing gear. Perhaps a tiny defect in one of the roaring motors as it slowed to a stop. Perhaps a sudden gust of wind, carrying the hydrogen laden air from her valves downward for one fatal moment. For they had thought of everything except the thing that happened.

It happened so suddenly that those who witnessed it are still aghast. At one instant the "Hindenburg" was moving serenely toward the mooring-mast. An instant later it was a flaming wreck, settling to earth in a roaring explosion which scorched the faces of those who saw and which blew men into eternity in an agony of thundering flames or to shed a few miraculously clear of the wreckage. For they had thought of everything . . . everything except——The precise fortuitous combination of circumstance—which made a tangled heap of warped girders and charred bodies on that tragic landing-field. There is warning there for all who care to draw the lesson, but there is grief beyond all that, grief that so fine a work of human skill should come to such horror and loss of those who trusted their lives to her commander.

They thought of everything, except the tiny spark which ruined all.

Miller and Atty. Tom McFadden, Anaheim, in whose office several conferences, with Jones present, were held, both testified no threats, no coercion and no promises of immunity were made to Jones to obtain his written promise to testify against Gillenwaters. Miller denied, upon cross-examination, he

Oh, Social Security, what insecurity is planned in thy name. "All we ask," says a worker, "is what we earn." But we wouldn't last long if other drivers gave it to us. A husband can tell when his wife is getting interest in somebody else. She notices for the first time how ugly he is. Wasn't love grand? Remember how you pretended to misunderstand so you could enjoy the heart-ache? Common people can't afford to imitate their betters now. The common who act that way go to jail.

Miller said Jones "you are in hot water and out on a limb."

"He seemed pleased to tell his story voluntarily," Miller said. "I never told Jones he was a co-conspirator in a phoney draft situation."

"Witness Evasive!"

Miller's added statement that Jones "admitted he was a co-conspirator" was ordered stricken from the record. Attorney Shirley sought to show that Miller displayed a deputy sheriff's badge to Jones, but failed in his effort.

Attorney J. H. Morris, with I. H. Harris, representing Gillenwaters, asked that "full light on this 10 days of incarceration be shown."

He described the "effort" to obtain Jones' promise as "pernicious."

"This witness is evasive," he barked.

Shirley and Deputy District Attorney Harold McCabe argued heatedly this morning over proper methods to be used "in trying to impeach this witness," referring to Miller. Jones was on the stand briefly this morning. He testified Miller informed him "you are implicated in this matter and it will be necessary to tell your story."

THREE GET TAGS AFTER 80-MILE- AN-HOUR CHASE

Borrowed automobiles and a flare for speed sent Motorcycle Officer George Boyd on an 80-mile-an-hour chase down Santa Ana boulevard yesterday noon.

As a result, three youths were ticketed for reckless driving and failure to have automobile registration, and two of them faced the additional charge of vagrancy. Boyd ticketed occupants of two cars for doing 70 miles per hour in a 45-mile zone while staging an impromptu race along the boulevard.

In Santa Ana justice court today, Thomas Lee Walker, 18, Long Beach, who, officers said, has served a jail term for grand theft, pleaded guilty to vagrancy charge and judgment was set for Friday at 9. Guy M. Taylor, 19, Huntington Park, Walker's companion, pleaded not guilty and trial was set for May 25, 9:30 a. m. Bail was set at $500 each.

Wesley Robertson, 22, Los Angeles, driver of the second car, will face the reckless driving and non-registration charges in city court, later.

Walker said he borrowed the car from a local used car dealer, "on trial," and Robertson said he borrowed his, similarly, from a dealer in Los Angeles.

Two Young Men Lodged In Jail

Assertedly confessing to the theft of two cars from Anaheim before either of them was discovered missing, Nick Perez, 19, and Lolo Martinez, 26, of a C.C.C. camp were in the Anaheim city jail today awaiting their hearing on grand theft charges brought by P. Veyna, owner of one of the cars.

Veyna, left his car parked in the driveway at his home, 697 E. Chartres, about 10 o'clock Monday night.

The men confessed to Oceanside police who arrested them, that they had stolen another Anaheim car, earlier in the evening, and had abandoned it somewhere in Anaheim. This car answered the description of a car reported stolen from Joe W. Hill, 317 E. Cypress.

It Seems To Me

by

HEYWOOD BROWN

I first heard of the Hindenburg disaster through a radio announcement. This is by no means the best medium for the transmitting of tragic news. Hard upon the heels of some sunrise as the sound of studio applause, shouts of "Hill Hill!" and the announcer's joyous report, "Here comes Bing Crosby!"

I am not blaming anybody for this. It would be difficult, if not impossible, for all persons on prepared programs to tear up their scripts and prevent hilarity impinging upon the domain of dreadful detail.

And yet as the evening wore on, with its constant switch from casualty lists to crooning I felt that something ought to be done about it. There is a time to keen and a time to croon. At least, I could make my own arrangements, and I shut the thing off. It is not possible to take "Poor Johnny One Note" too many times as an interlude between reports of death and agony.

DEATH RIDES THE AIR

Although the radio in its exploitation of personality is supposed to bring a warmer and more human note than other media of communication, there are occasions upon which its fundamental setup is far more callous than any printed page.

Indeed, I am beginning to wonder whether the overemphasis upon personality in both radio and press is not essentially a somewhat glacial approach to the vital problem of life. Autobiographical details about the lives of not very important people can approach absolute zero when some struggle of men against death is in the cards. And I believe that this accusation of too great a subjectivity and ego concentration lies closer to the door of radio than it does to the portals of the press.

If I ever own a newspaper (and I must point out that this is not an appeal to "angels") I would rule that every columnist must devote at least half his contribution to an account of news happenings actually seen and observed by the commentator. I would allow him only half his days to deal with his own reactions, rumors, headlines and his personal idiosyncrasies. To many this may seem too lenient a schedule, but I believe that for most columnists it would mean a vast increase in footwork.

And, even so, the commentators of the press are far more active in getting about than are their confederates of the air. The gentlemen who do the nightly commentaries for the ether are so busy preparing scripts, or having them prepared, that they seldom get down to earth from their penthouses. Indeed few of them make any pretense of gathering news. Their admitted function is to dramatize it. And this dramatic license is broad enough to permit the production of rushing waters through studio sound effects.

In fact, it seems to me that the radio commentator, with enough exceptions to include my friends, is not a commentator at all but an actor. I know several first-class reporters who now give out only through the microphone. At least for the duration of their contracts they have ceased to be good newspaper men. Their first interest is in vocal production.

AMONG THE ACTORS

I trust that nobody will insist that Roake Carter is an economist or Ed Hill an authority on contemporary labor relations. Both gentlemen do excellent and exciting jobs. Give either of them no more than a headline and he can make the invisible listener see troops ships upon the tide and watch the Derby horses in the stretch or thrill to the mental sound picture of a coronation band. This is an art. But it is not in any precise sense the craft of reporting, for the effect is produced almost entirely by elocutionary effort. We may see the happenings of the world, but we see them darkly as reflected through the particular personality of Mr. Hill or Mr. Carter.

To be sure, those men and women who fulfill a somewhat similar function through the newspaper should not escape scot free from the same accusation. Frankly, to coin a phrase, I think the "It seems to me business" is too much with us. My advice to all those who have personalities, or think they have, is to pack them in their old kit bag and get out and hustle to find what the other fellow thinks.

CHAPTER XIX

SYBIL came into the office Thursday morning. She descended upon it with breath-taking glamour, striking the impressionable young office girls speechless with awe and admiration.

Ten or 15 minutes later, Sybil and Bob entered Joan's office together. Joan was surprised to see Sybil, but she greeted her cordially.

"Sybil wants us out for dinner tonight, Joan," he stated, questioning.

"Tonight?" she repeated, wondering if he had already accepted the invitation.

"Yes," he explained that he was leaving for Washington at midnight.

"You can come, nevertheless," Sybil interrupted. "It's just a quiet family party, Joan. Just the three of us and my uncle. Thursday, you know, is Abraham's regular night out, and I like to have Uncle John dine with me. He dislikes restaurants."

MR. HENDRY, however, pleaded a dinner engagement with his friend Norton, and Sybil insisted that the date stand, just for the three of them—Bob, Joan and herself.

"I know you aren't keen about it," Bob apologized to Joan after Sybil had gone, "but there just didn't seem any way out of it."

"I don't mind at all," Joan assured him, smiling. But she remembered Dorothy's words about Sybil's feeling for Bob, and she felt vaguely uneasy.

It was peculiar that Sybil should have gone to Bob's office first, to invite him before she had spoken to the others.

"Well, I mind," Bob said heartily. "I'd rather have you to myself tonight. I may be gone two whole days."

"Two whole days!" Joan laughed, reassured.

The dinner, of course, was perfect. Joan wondered if she would ever be able to do as well in her own home. She doubted it. There was something about the place, the place for him—or anyone like him—in their future home. Bob would agree with her in that. Rather for them, a genial black Abraham, or a homely, hearty Mrs. McDonald. And upon neither of these could one depend for formal perfection.

"YOUR dinners are always perfect, Sybil," Bob commented, as they finished dessert.

"I'm so glad you enjoy them, Bob," Sybil replied graciously. "It is always such a pleasure to have you here. . . . Shall we have coffee in the living room? We can take our time there. . . ."

A moment later, she remarked: "I am sorry that you must leave early, Bob. What time is the train?"

"Midnight. But I want to stop at the Inn first to see your uncle."

"Did he and Mr. Norton dine at the Inn?" Sybil was surprised.

"They intended to, I believe."

"I suppose," she reflected, "that I might have asked them both to join us. But I assumed that they were staying in town."

Bob shook his head. "I wish they had," he said cryptically.

"Why?"

"Oh, we had some difficulty at the office this afternoon. . . ."

Joan tried to catch his eye, but they were seated side by side on the divan, and Sybil, opposite, was watching too closely. It was not wise, she thought, to discuss that affair too freely. Even though Sybil was Mr. Hendry's own niece.

"What happened?" Sybil asked with curiosity.

"The owner of this mine your uncle has arranged to buy," Bob explained to explain, "sent word that he'd be in town this Saturday to complete the sale. He wants his money in cash—forty thousand dollars."

"In cash?" Sybil exclaimed.

Bob nodded. "It sounds crazy, I know. But that's the way it is. Well, it takes a bit of financial juggling to get that much cash together. Mr. Hendry arranged for the sale of certain securities, to be paid for in cash, thinking the sale would go through tomorrow. Instead, however, it was made this afternoon, and about ten minutes after your uncle left, the messenger showed up with approximately forty thousand dollars in cash, to be paid over to Mr. Hendry personally."

"And you left it in the office?" Sybil asked eagerly.

"No. The messenger wanted it out of his hands as quickly as possible, but his orders were to give it to nobody but Mr. Hendry himself. So he came out here to Green Hills with it."

"BUT the messenger?" Sybil asked. "Suppose he tells someone?"

"He's not likely to," Bob assured her. "He's responsible and bonded." Then, in a lighter tone: "But suppose we stop worrying about it. I've said altogether too much myself. . . . What's Philip doing with himself these days, Sybil? I haven't seen him since the holidays."

A peculiar smile came to Sybil's lips. "Philip's been out of town," she announced. "He's been in Chicago since the first of April, and then he was sent to Seattle."

Joan's heart turned over.

"He's working?" Bob inquired with interest.

"Yes. And doing well, too."

"Just what he is doing?"

"He's making some sort of a survey, I guess you would call it." Sybil pretended to be groping for the right words.

"However, I've been cautioned not to discuss it, for the time being."

Joan fought to maintain her composure. Was it coincidence that had taken Philip to Chicago and then to Seattle? Was Sybil telling the truth about his new job? Or was it a survey for Sybil that he was making—or for Mr. Hendry—a survey into the background of Joan Barrett?

It seemed almost as if Sybil were trying to tell her that. To frighten her away, perhaps, and leave the field clear for her conquest of Bob.

But she would not be frightened. Let Philip survey Seattle, if he must. Dorothy Stark could offset any stories that he might bring back. . . .

Out in the hallway, the telephone rang, and Joan heard Jennings answer it. A moment later he appeared at the door: "Long distance for you, Miss Sybil," he announced.

Sybil rose quickly. "That may be Philip now," she remarked. . . .

"Will you both excuse me?"

When she returned to the living room several minutes later, there was a malevolent gleam in her eyes. She looked straight at Joan as she said: "It was Philip, phoning from San Francisco. And he told me that he's just unearthed some choice gossip!"

Joan paled. Now she was certain about Philip's survey.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 12.—(UP)—The lightest trading of the year developed in the stock market today despite selective buying in industrial and railroad issues.

All Canadian and British markets were closed for the coronation, resulting in a drying up of almost all foreign business.

Commodity markets also were quiet but prices showed firmness after early irregularity. Bond trading was quiet.

Real issues led the early advance on the stock market. Atchafalpa again paced with more than 2 points gain.

This followed private estimates that second quarter carrier earnings will be the best since 1930.

An optimistic record by the magazine Iron Age brought buying into steel shares which at one time carried U. S. Steel 1 1/2 higher.

Later it slipped 1/2 point, but a fractional gain and Bethlehem lost part of its early advance.

U. S. Steel preferred advanced 1/2 and new low for the year at 133 1/2 off 2 1/2.

Chrysler led motors, advancing more than one point and one-half.

General Motors was fractionally higher.

A. J. C. led production, advancing 1/2 point.

Eastman Kodak gained 1/2 point to 154 1/2 as directors lifted the annual dividend from $5 to $5.25.

Woolworth and American Tobacco issues made new lows on fractional declines.

ENGLAND'S HERO

With England and all British possessions in a furore today over the coronation of King George VI, it is doubtful that George will ever be the national hero that his brother, Edward, Duke of Windsor and former monarch, was. Nor will he ever have bestowed upon him the affection of the English people that was Edward's.

The spirit that prompted Edward to abdicate the throne is the very thing that will keep him enshrined in the hearts of the English people. The trait that permitted George VI to ignore, completely, the former king, yesterday in his first address of Coronation Week is the one that will keep his subjects from extending to him the whole-hearted worship that they gave and still give his brother.

Edward lived an active life, he knew and loved people and placed the welfare of humans on a par with the welfare of state. For those reasons he was loved by the people. George is a ruler first, last and always. He will be a just ruler and respected by his subjects, but the state will come first and no peoples will worship a man who does not first captivate their hearts.

VOTING ON IT

As we approach pure democracy more and more, and most everything must be decided by taking votes, the Nebbs Comic Strip running daily in The Register certainly illustrates the modern tendency of attempting to make everything pure democracy.

To get the point, one must remember that the central figure in the strip, a middle aged cook, had four or five proposals of marriage. One came from a banker and the cook had told several people around the small town of her proposal from this particular banker, much to the embarrassment of the banker.

When the banker protests the general publicity of the proposals, the cook contends that she is only asking advice from her friends and he makes a statement very much to the point, as follows: "Who else did you ask for advice. When I asked you to marry me, I didn't know it was a community proposition. I didn't know the town had to take a vote on it."

Our modern colleges and high schools are teaching pure democracy in their curriculums. They believe that everything should be voted on—what constitutes a day's work, how labor should be divided and even, sooner or later, how long a man has a right to work. We might just as well add, taking a vote on whether a man has a right to marry a woman or not without the consent of the voting majority.

If we are going to have pure democracy, and do away with our Constitutional rights, let's have it all the way.

FULLERTON'S GOLDEN JUBILEE

On Friday, May 14, the city of Fullerton will be 50 years of age.

So it is befitting that a Golden Jubilee is being held this week.

In 1887, when Fullerton came into being, that section of the county was largely given over to pasturage for sheep and cattle. Its richness had not been discovered except by a few, but now it is considered by the residents of the vicinity as the "garden spot of Orange County." The city was laid out in 1887 by the Amerige brothers and the Pacific Land and Improvement company. The first building was erected the same year, in which year also occurred the advent of the railroad.

One of the Amerige brothers who founded the city of Fullerton, George Amerige, will have a prominent part in the golden jubilee. Although 82 years of age, the living founder of Fullerton is an active figure today and he has been a constant resident of the city since the day he and his brother, Edward, purchased the 430 acres of townsite from the Miles estate. Charles Miles, from whom the original site was purchased by the Amerige brothers will be an honored guest during the week's celebration.

Fullerton was given its name in honor of G. H. Fuller, then president of the Pacific Land and Improvement company, which was an organization of the directors of the Santa Fe. He was a factor in the early beginning of the town. Later the name of Fullerton was changed to La Habra in harmony with the name of the adjoining valley. The opposition to this change was so strong that the town was re-christened Fullerton, although the first railroad tickets were issued to La Habra.

In the fall of 1888 the first train reached Fullerton but this did not increase the growth of the town as was expected, for by that time the great boom of the late 80s in Southern California was over.

The first good building to be erected in Fullerton was the St. George hotel, costing $50,000. This was followed by the Wilshire block, costing about $8000. It was in this building that the first postoffice was established and the first store opened. The first church was the Presbyterian, which was erected in 1889.

Fullerton nestles in the center of orange and walnut groves today and is made up of comfortable homes, surrounded by fine land suitable for growing almost anything put into it. The people are generous and hospitable and anxious to promote the general welfare in any way that will serve the interests of all.

We congratulate Fullerton on its fiftieth anniversary and join the city in its golden jubilee.

RAILROAD LANDSCAPING

A number of old familiar landmarks are disappearing as the streamline and spruce-up movement spreads across the United States. Now it begins to look as if one of the most familiar of all—the old red caboose, with its little cupola on top—is about to be submerged.

At any rate, we learn that the Chicago, St. Paul and Milwaukee railroad is coming out with a set of new cabooses which apparently are going to be almost as fancy and decorative as observation cars. The cupola will be gone; instead, there will be expansive windows at the sides. Instead of being the traditional brick-red in color, the caboose will be painted a silvery aluminum with black trim.

Inside, the car will be roomier, we are told, airier and far more comfortable, with such conveniences for the train crew as built-in refrigerators and leather upholstered side seats which can quickly be converted into beds.

All of this no doubt is necessary, and should make for happier train crews and handsomer freight trains. But that old red caboose is a cherished and familiar part of the American scene. The country just won't look natural if they take it away from us, no matter how good looking its replacement may be.

CRUSADE ON DEATH

The bloody, tragedy-strewn trail of the drunken driver covers the whole of America today. It not only menaces all who drive automobiles, but also anyone who crosses a street, or walks along a sidewalk, or waits for a stop light.

Believing that one way to combat this scourge is to develop public opinion against the inebriate driver, the Cleveland Press splashes details of the worst traffic fatalities across the front page. It photographs the driver, if he's still alive; the victim; the victim's family; and, occasionally, the bar where the driver admitted he got "a couple of beers and a shot."

If this stirs enough public sentiment to outlaw the intoxicated driver, it will have achieved a great goal. On that basis the Press' practice is one every paper in the country may well employ.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Harry Hopkins is reported to have said that a cut of $500,000,000 in relief appropriations will fire 400,000 relief workers. That figure out $1250 per worker on relief. According to the most reliable current estimates, 22 per cent of all American families (averaging a little over four people per family) in 1929 were living on incomes of less than $1250 per year. This would indicate that relief living is as least as fat as that of one-third of our employed population. Indeed it would indicate that it is a lot fatter because the $1250 relief figure is the income of an individual who may or not be the sole support of a family of four, which in turn may or may not have other breadwinners, while the estimate of family income is total intake of an entire family of four.

The error in this is that the whole $1250 doesn't go to the relief worker. Only about $720, as an average, goes to him. Accurate figures are not available, but it is generous to say that only about 68 per cent of the billions spent on relief trickles down to those on relief. Where does the rest go?

An old Negro tenant farmer was asked about his cotton crop. "How much money did you get out of it, Uncle?"

"Oh, I got de cotton but I didn't get de money."

"Well, who did get it?"

"Deducks got it."

"What do you mean, the ducks got it?"

"Well, when de boss man tote up de bill to de cotton, it was $300 to stant, but when he got 'tuh' fingerin'—deduck dis and deduck dat an' deduck dother—'aint nawthin' left." Deducks took it all."

That is what happens to relief money. Mr. Hopkins says the total overhead is only 4.7 per cent and adds that 10 per cent is considered good administration in business management. It all depends on what you call overhead. I know of a case in which overhead was "reduced" by first transferring the cost of clerical force from the general office to a bunch of projects. Mr. Hopkins' boys roll their own as far as accounting is concerned.

It would be interesting to see an independent audit of the seven billions or so dollars they have broadcast. I know that it would show no dishonesty or graft, but it would disclose much on which to plan ways for preventing "de ducks" from getting away with nearly half the billions appropriated for relief.

Articles by Jay Franklin, Heywood Brown, and Robert Quillan and other regular Register features will be found on page 17.

Of course, a very large part of the lost 42 per cent goes for material and equipment. This rule at starting was that no more than 30 per cent should go for this. On any worthwhile construction that is impossible. The rule was evaded, in some cases, by simply employing a lot more people than were necessary to do the job. That satisfied the percentage rule but it inflated the cost of the finished projects.

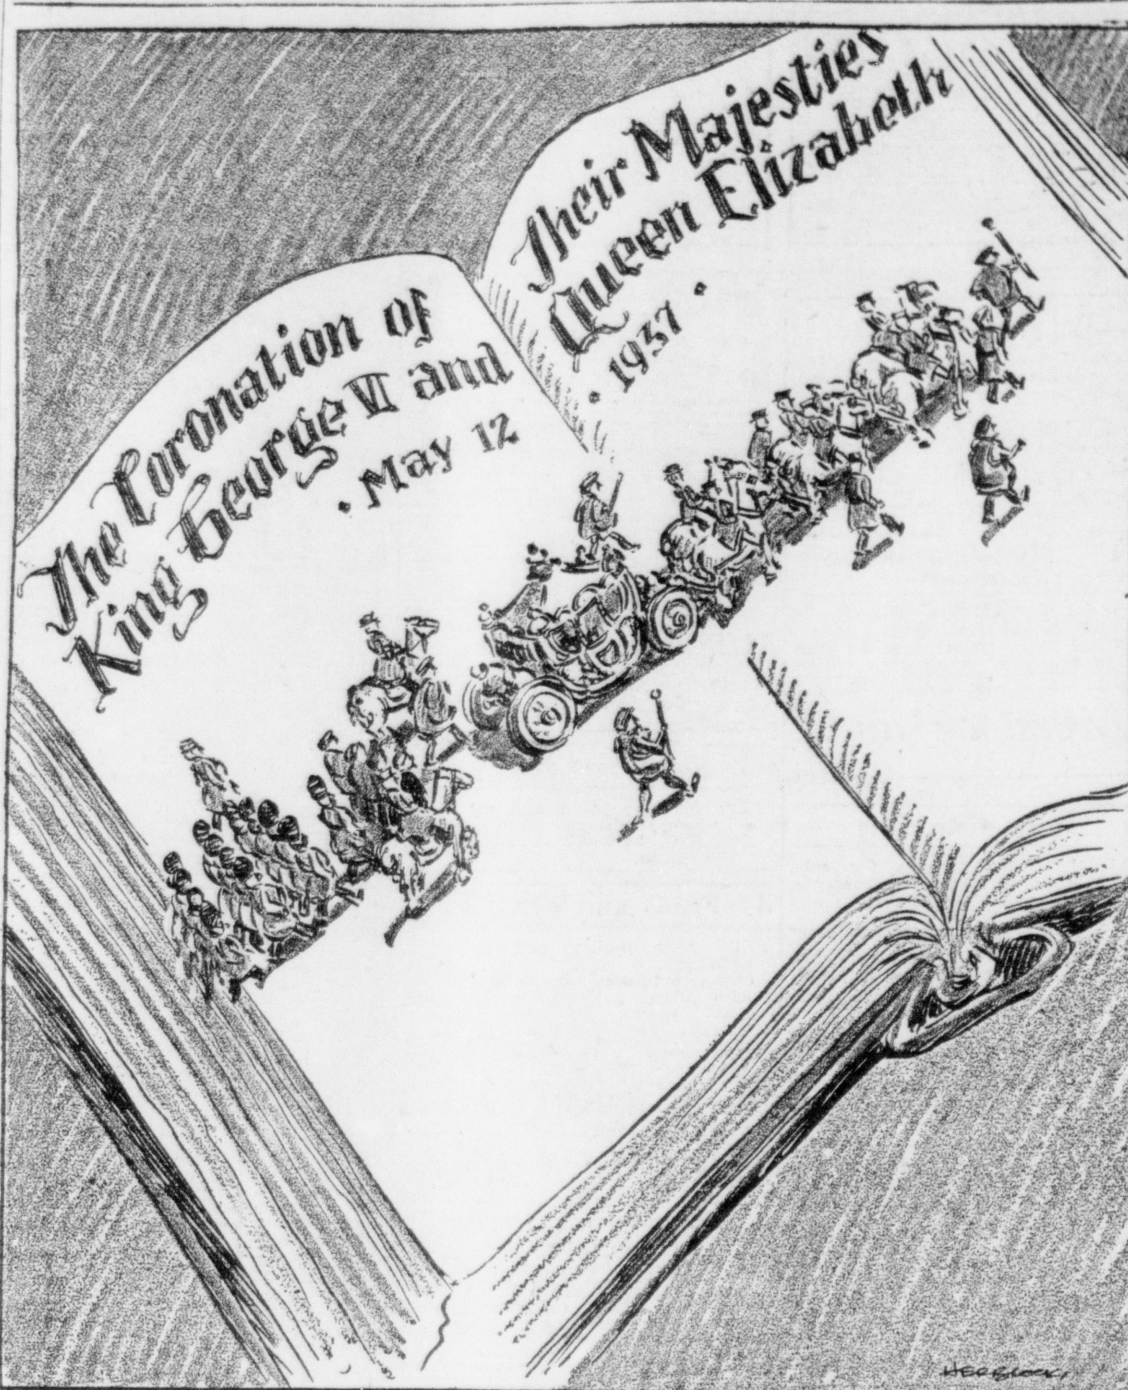

If part of these billions which "de ducks" gobbled went to provide permanent, necessary improvements at reasonable cost, it might be better defended. Some of it does, but most of it doesn't. If we could afford to spend these diverted billions that also would be another story. But while we must maintain relief, we must also preserve the federal credit.

Only 58 per cent of all those billions reaching the destitute! Seven billions spent to see that "nobody is going to starve in this country," and three billions diverted from that purpose!

It is simple to say but just impossible to comprehend. It is not merely what Harry Hopkins likes to call "cockeyed," it is one of the most grotesquely fantastical and tragic pieces of administration in the history of the human race.

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register:

On May the third at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Everett Dean Martin, in his most extraordinary forum lecture and discussion, gave a brief outline of the development of freedom of thought and action in Europe and America.

The told of the interdict, the sitdown strike of the twelfth century, when bishops and priests rebelled against the arbitrary rules and regulations prescribed by Pope Gregory the VII. He related how it gave rise to a stimulation of freedom of expression among the common people of that day.

During the Protestant Reformation the 99 thesis nailed on the door of the cathedral of Wittenberg caused another electrified impetus in awakening spirit and mind to freedom of conscience, of thought and action. John Wesley's spiritual revival in England had the same effect, giving inspiration to that masterly form of government embodied in the constitution of the United States of America.

Dr. Martin stressed the destructive methods of propaganda, as we have it displayed in the class hatred of the majority of the American people of today. "Down with the capitalists," "Let the rich pay for it," etc. Trotsky was a master of propaganda, and so are Hitler, Mussolini and Roosevelt, though the speaker did not mention the latter. A propagandist knows how to use slogans and repetitions effectively. These are constantly dinned in the ears and paraded before the eyes of the public; as the "abundant life," "the entrenched royalists of capitalism," phrases that drown the power of reasoning. It awakens enthusiasm, but the appeal to sensation and emotion paralyzes judgment and straight thinking. It gives rise to false and mushy impressions.

We are not being educated in the right direction. We are not implanting in the minds of the public a philosophy that is healthful and beneficial, but rather one that is detrimental to both the present and the future. The film, the radio, magazine writers and every other device appear to be working the same end.

How much better if we would keep alive in the youth of today the great masterpiece of the ages, and above all the greatest sacrifice of the universe, its atonement to sin at the cross of Golgotha.

HELENA S. CHRISTIANSEN

cation continue to delude the masses on this subject. The fact of the matter is, many educators believe that the poor do not pay indirectly for their schooling. They make these statements in absolute, good faith.

One of the reasons why it is so easy to be in error in this conclusion is that a local property tax cannot be passed on directly if it is higher than local property tax in other districts. For this reason, it is easy to conclude that the tax is paid by the direct property owner. But let us follow this a little further. When a tax in any school district is higher than other taxes, new capital refrains from entering the district. This reduces the demand for labor and makes rents and commodities higher so that the worker pays by receiving lower wages and paying more for the things he buys.

Therefore, to assume that the children of the poor are being educated free, is erroneous. It is true that people are not paying direct taxes but they are paying most dearly by having lower wages and higher costs of commodities.

What Other Editors Say

From San Francisco Chronicle

WHOSE WORDS? The Boston speech by James Roosevelt on federal relief policies is disquieting. The president's son laid down the principle that the state and cities now besieging Washington for appropriations should take care of their own. The principle is one that was held by a good many people before President Roosevelt established the contrary. In that pre-experimental period anathema was showered on the heads of those who dared say what James Roosevelt now says.

It is not the intention here to argue the merits or demerits of the principles involved. The disquieting effect of James Roosevelt's speech does not hinge on the principle, but upon the fact that upon this greatest of national charges there is no way for the people to determine the speaker's responsibility or irresponsibility. Concerning the doings of the president's family members we have heard from time to time that they are free and independent individuals whose acts concern the president's private, not public capacity.

James Roosevelt, however, now is in a somewhat different position. By his father's appointment he is a presidential secretary, by many regarded as an executive spokesman.

Now, if communities are to pay the penalty for industry's "crime" in failing to solve the president's relief problem, there may be question about the fairness of the program. But there can be none about the fairness of giving the communities direct and official warning.

If James Roosevelt is relaying his father's opinions, the president himself might better state them. If he is talking off the record, his present official position gives his words a highly official tone. In similar instances, Kaisers have publicly rebuked crown princes for muttering in the shadow of the throne. In a democracy, too, people are entitled to know where they stand.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

TO THE ADOLESCENT GIRL

This bit of advice and suggestion is offered the adolescent girls who find life rather hard. I am not going to say, "Cheer up," or "Forget it." I know that you cannot cheer up or forget it when you feel had about things that you cannot help, such as having a father who won't let you learn to dance, won't let you go down the street alone so you can walk back with the boy you like best.

Nor can I say, "Don't worry when you are left out of the parties, remain wall flowers at the school parties, get no phone calls in the evening, have no girl friends or boy friends running in to talk things over." I know you are grieving about your lack of popularity, and unless I can say something helpful there is no use in saying anything. Maybe this will help a little.

You are in a halfway stage of growth. You think you know enough to shoulder responsibility for yourself, but in your heart you know that you cannot do that. You seeaw in your mind and all you do. Your uncertainty makes father more certain that you cannot take care of yourself and sets him more solidly against your social ambitions. He thinks that No Boys is the safest way out.

You see then, the root of the trouble you are enduring lies in your stage of growth, something nobody can help. Time will help it. In the meantime, try to find some way of showing father, proving it by your behavior, that you can be trusted, that you have good sense. You must prove it by actions. Words won't do.

How? Keep your word strictly. If you say that you will do something, do it no matter what. If you promise to be at home at a certain hour, get there. If you say you are going down the street to Mary's house, alone, go to Mary's house, alone, and return that way. I mean that once you have proven to your father and mother that your word is good, that your head is set right on your shoulders, they are going to trust you and be proud of it. The parents who refuse to trust a trustworthy daughter out of their sight are few and far between. They are like all other people. They act on their experiences. Make those right and you will have less trouble.

On being a wall flower. Most of you are trying to live beyond your age. Sex attraction—don't be afraid of that term—is not a characteristic of childhood, or early adolescence. There are some girls who mature in that particular rather early, but that does not mean that such maturity is desirable. Rather the other way. The longer the period of preparation the better the product, every time. Be patient and wait until you grow up sufficiently to be attractive to the boys and young men. It is largely a matter of maturity that troubles you. All girls in good health are attractive when they arrive. Wait for that time.

When you are at a loss and can find no way out, confide in the teacher you like best, even if that is the teacher you had way back in the One A. Don't talk too much about yourself to other girls. Find the right grown up person. And all the time, cultivate your mind and your body toward usefulness. The most popular person in society is the one that is most useful.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

News Behind The News

LOCAL LUCK

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A rumor is abroad that congress adjourned several weeks ago, when the president went fishing. This is what might be called officially an inaccuracy, but it is nevertheless just about true.

When President Roosevelt returns, he will learn the biggest thing that has happened in his absence was the capture by Representative Sam McNary, of Tennessee, of a 45-pound Chantrel bass (don't ask an audit on the poundage). It is also true that a couple of the legislators nearly balanced the budget in the fifth race at Pimlico the other day, but failed sensationally by a nose.

Outside of these two developments, the stillness in congress has been sufficiently sweeping to cause a major White House problem.

The unobserved fact is the leaders have cleaned up their legislative calendars of most bills that do not impose additional costs on the treasury, except supreme court packing and government reorganization. Now it is up to Mr. R. to decide whether he wants to reel in or let out line on the budget, and the leaders will not move until they hear from him directly and specifically on each bill.

NOTE—The supreme court packing drive now lacks any sentence of the drive which Mr. Roosevelt personally gave it at first. Some good judges of opinion in the senate and house doubt that he could get two additional justices in a vote today. What vim he will put into it, if any, remains to be seen.

SUCCESS

Senators have become so accustomed to sensational turns of events they have even stopped talking now about the sudden turn in the career of the new senator, George Berry of Tennessee. Within a week, he was raised in the public eye from coordinator for non-existent industrial cooperation and claimant for around a million and a half dollars from TVA to a seat in the senate from Tennessee.

The only answer now authoritatively available for the Berry appointment involves two prophecies.

One is that Gordon Browning of Tennessee, who made the appointment, will run for Berry's senate seat in 1938. Another is that Governor Browning will become one of the few governors in the country now enjoying federal patronage in his state. These two prophecies are as sure as anything ever is in Washington, but if you want a third speculative guess to round out the picture, it is that the TVA claim dispute may be lost somewhere in the shuffle.

STUCK

The sugar question is hot, and nearly everyone who has touched it here is more or less personally acquainted now with the chemical reaction which takes place when sugar warms up. This includes two cabinet members, Agriculture Secretary Wallace and State Secretary Hull, half a dozen lobbyist organizations working at cross purposes and the house agriculture committee which is over its collar in difficulty.

The latest inside development is supposed to be that Mr. Wallace has informed Chairman Jones of the house committee that the administration is inclined to scrap all sugar legislation rather than take the bill drawn by the subcommittee.

Which just then something else dropped, being ma's book falling on the floor in ma's surprise. Being the beginning of the sad part.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Pop was smoking behind the newspaper and I said, Hay pop, what time is it?

It's precisely 8 thirty 2 and a half, pop said, and I said G, pop, time certainly flies, dont it?

It has that reputation and I believe it seldom fails to live up to it, pop said. I remember very vividly one time when I was about your age I was shown a whole quart of strawberry ice cream and informed that I could have all I could possibly eat in a gentlemanly manner in 3 minutes. High ho, how those 3 minutes flew, he said.

And he started to read the paper again and after a while I said, What time is it now, pop?

8 thirty 7 and I hope that covers the situation for a while, pop said looking at his watch again, and pritty soon I said, What time is it now, pop?

Yee gods I take a certain amount of pardonable pride in the accuracy of my watch, but there comes a time when time becomes immaterial and irrelevant, pop said, in other words I just told you, didn't I? he said, and I said, Yes sir, and he said, Well what's the big hurry, where are you going except to bed?

Nowhere, pop, only G, pop, just imagine, I said, and pop said, Just imagine what? and I said, Just imagine that no matter what time it is now, ma's wrist watch is still saying exactly 13 minutes after 7 because that's the time it stopped when I accidentally gave it a little push off of her dressing table.

Which just then something else dropped, being ma's book falling on the floor in ma's surprise. Being the beginning of the sad part.
